Preamble to the Sexuality Series

Sex Ed and Global Values

by Berit Kjos (www.crosswind.to)

When fifteen-year-old Kevin walked into his American History class at Cupertino High School in California, he was given a handout. He glanced at the title: "Heterosexuality: Can It be Cured?" Weird, he thought and looked around. Some of his friends were studying it, too. He read on:

Heterosexuality is a condition characterized by a sexual attraction to members of the opposite gender. Many persons, in all cultures, at all times, have been heterosexual.

Whatever the cause of this phenomenon, we can state without doubt that there are many problems associated with heterosexuality, both for the individual and society at large.

Curious, Kevin scanned the list of problems. Women were especially vulnerable, it said. They could face sexually transmitted diseases and unplanned pregnancy as well as mental and psychological hazards" such as "a state of homophobia." The suggested treatments included psychotherapy and widespread sterilization of the heterosexual population. Was this a joke?

The next page gave the source of this bizarre "research". It came from the American Public Health Association Caucus of Gay and Public Health Workers. [Look what is allowed in schools and we can't give good Christian teaching on sexuality.]

Undermine traditional values

It's no secret that the gay and lesbian coalition have waged an intense campaign to draw young students into their lifestyle. Their demand for laws mandating classroom sensitivity training designed to build "respect" for their values has opened classrooms to unspeakable propaganda. And they are not alone in the battle against concerned parents who would block their "right" to indoctrinate captive young everywhere.

Planned Parenthood and its partners around the world also demand that children must be set free to indulge in sexual thrills-without fear of pregnancy. So does SIECUS (The Sex Information and Education Council of the United States). Together they have prepared a titillating display of films, textbooks, props, and promotional material. Most of it is designed to promote rather than deter sexual activity-and, more subtly, earth-centered spirituality. The two go together.

It's not surprising that Sexuality and Man, a collection of articles compiled by SIECUS board members, sports a yin-yang symbol on the cover. One of its authors, Dr. Lester Kirkendall unveiled the SIECUS philosophy:

"The purpose of sex education is not... to control and suppress sex expression, as in the past, but to indicate the immense possibilities for human fulfillment that human sexuality offers. The individual must be given sufficient understanding to incorporate sex most fruitfully and most responsibly into his present and future life."

Preamble to the Sexuality Series

The primary goal, however, is to change values. The first steps are: "challenging the students' fixed beliefs," shaking their moral convictions, and breaking down modesty and inhibitions. The titillating sex-ed films, suggestive classroom discussions, and provocative literature serve the purpose well. Children are forced to think the unthinkable and visualize the forbidden-until sensuality has replaced Christianity in their minds and hearts. Before long, sin looks cool; and what God calls good seems boring.

A shocked father described some of sex education programs in his home state, Massachusetts: "A 14-year-old Beverly High School girl came home and told her father that he was a 'homophobe.' She had just returned from 'Homophobia Week' sessions at the school."

"At Silver Lake High School, the ninth-grade health text teaches: 'Testing your ability to function sexually and to give pleasure to another person may be less threatening in the early teens with people of your own sex.' Also, 'You may come to the conclusion that growing up means rejecting the values of your parents.' Students were told to keep the book in their lockers and not take it home."

"In Brookline, a transsexual had been invited to explain to a class of first-graders how a sex change can take place. Parents had not been notified or prepared to counsel their frightened, confused children."

"In Westford, thirteen-year-olds were asked on a quiz: 'What is the best method against pregnancy?' The choice of 'abstinence' was deemed incorrect."

What do students gain from these lessons? They learn to question home-taught values and look with "open minds" at dangerous alternatives. Many educators know that when children are trapped in sensuous lifestyles, they can no longer delight in God.

It makes sense. Remember, "the whole world lies under the sway of the wicked one." (1 John 5:19) Satan has always distorted truth, twisted facts, and seduced people with enticing counterfeits of God's promises. His latest argument is persuasive: Peace and unity are good. War and conflict are bad. Religions that stir guilt and bring division are dangerous. And Christianity, the biggest culprit, blocks progress toward a more evolved set of values based on all the world's religions.

Discuss alternative values

To understand this planned rebellion against biblical values, look back to 1970. Education psychologist Dr. William Glasser had just pioneered a "daring new program" for changing attitudes. His book, Schools Without Failure, introduced a manipulative strategy for turning the class into an encounter and counseling group:

"Children would share their feelings and air their complaints under the guidance of a trained facilitator with a politically correct answer. They learned to empathize with another's lust and respect each other's feelings. Soon, they had traded God's moral standards for self-made choices. No longer would authoritarian parents impose their values on submissive children. They would write their own rules!"

Or so it seemed. Actually Glasser's tactics manipulated students into yielding individual choice-along with privacy and family loyalty. Consider the effect of the following suggestion:

"Children will often become very personal, talking about subjects that ordinarily are considered private. A child who discusses drunken brawls at home might quietly be asked to talk about something that has more relationship to school. Changing the subject in this way is sometimes unwise, however, because it is just those drunken brawls at home that have the most relationship to his school progress."

Today, we know that those private "brawls" become part of a student's computerized portfolio. A child's "honest" sharing about family activities gives school officials the needed data about family values. It enables them to monitor every family member-not just the kids in the classroom.

Professor Sidney Simon went a step further. His book, Values Clarification-A Handbook of Practical Strategies for Teachers and Students, added a more intrusive note to the vast selections of manipulative values-changing strategies used to speed the social transformation. Among the classroom exercises which soon filtered into textbooks and schools everywhere was a tactic called "values voting."

The teacher simply asks questions dealing with personal values. The students say "yes" by raising their hands. They answer "no" by pointing their thumbs down. They discuss their answers. Consider some of the questions. For example, "How many of you

- think there are times when cheating is justified?
- regularly attend religious services and enjoy it?
- think that women should stay home and be primary wives and mothers?
- would like to have a secret lover?
- would choose to die and go to heaven, if it meant playing a harp all day?"

For middle and high schools students, Simon added questions such as: "How many of you think sex education instruction in the schools should include techniques for lovemaking and contraception?" and "How many of you think you will continue to practice religions, just like your parents?"

You may recognize some of these questions. They have become standard fare in classrooms across the country. Whether teachers or school counselors lead the encounter groups, children are urged to share intimate details of family life. Most parents are kept in the dark.

During this directed dialogue, verbal and written responses are carefully monitored by watchful teachers, who are required to assess each child's individual "progress" toward the new attitudinal goals. Intrusive classroom surveys, "private" journal entries, and classroom writing projects all help expose personal beliefs and values.

If teachers and school counselors see anything that might hinder a student from meeting the new affective standards for politically correct attitudes, the child could be labeled "at risk"-meaning more monitoring, state control, and possible removal of a child "whose home environment was felt to have a malignant influence."

Preamble to the Sexuality Series

Establish target values

The rejection of traditional values happened with the approval of our political leaders. Remember what President Bush said in 1992 when he announced America 2000: "Nations that stick to stale old notions and ideologies will falter and fail. So I'm here to say, America will move forward New Schools for a new world."

Actually, George Bush endorsed values clarification long before he became president. In 1974, he helped write a report titled, "Man, Education, and Society in the Year 2000." Funded by HEW's Office of Education, it concluded that "the 50 states should organize a commission to establish the values that are significant in approaching problems (e.g., population) that must be faced in the future." The summary explained that

"The traditional cluster of knowledge, skills, values and concepts will not help our young face the future in their private life, the international situation.... Perhaps there is a need for clarification of new values needed to solve future problems."

He is not the only president who proved his loyalty to global education before winning the White House. In 1987, (then) Governor Bill Clinton served on The Study Commission on Global Education with other education, business, and New Age leaders. Together they prepared a report titled "The United States Prepares for Its Future: Global Perspectives in Education." Its Foreword stated that "It now seems almost conventional to speak of American citizenship in the same breath with international interdependence and the planetary environment."

These leaders envisioned a world without war - a global village where young and old would share a common set of values, fulfill their prescribed civic responsibility, and consent to what Al Gore called "a wrenching transformation of society."

In this new world, sexual experimentation would be okay, but dissent and resistance would not be tolerated. Group consensus and conformity to the planned changes ahead would be essential. In the end, all would supposedly live together in peace and unity.

Their vision of the new world order is not unlike the managed society described by Aldous Huxley in his 1932 futuristic fantasy, Brave New World:

- Children are raised collectively according to the needs of the global labor market.
- Group thinking has replaced individual views.
- Communal "Feelies" or sensory experiences are encouraged.
- Casual sex is obligatory.
- Mandatory pills prevent pregnancy.
- People are kept too busy with work and trivia to think or complain.
- All must participate in mystical group rituals invoking a universal god.
- Peer pressure and constant surveillance ensure compliance.

The similarities between our schools and Huxley's Brave New World is not as strange as it might seem. Aldous Huxley's brother was Julian Huxley, the first Secretary-General of UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization). Promoting the same socialist and humanist values as John Dewey, Julian Huxley brought his brother's vision into UNESCO and laid the foundations for the new international education system. Our Goals 2000 is little more than the American branch of what UNESCO, in 1973, called a "continuous and integrated process" of "lifelong learning."

Vital to the implementation of this monstrous system are the deceptive marketing strategies needed to persuade the public to submit to its oppressive rules and laws. After all, this new tightly managed world system would eliminate all the freedoms most Americans now take for granted. It would own each child and control each person. But it would sanction the sexual sins God forbids.

Today, this twist on freedom serves a purpose. As in recent totalitarian regimes, well-chosen compensations distract the masses from the anguish of tyranny. In Brave New World, Aldous Huxley describes the seductive "feelies" that compensate for the loss of freedom. First among them is sexual license:

"As political and economic freedom diminishes, sexual freedom tends compensatingly to increase. And the dictator... will do well to encourage that freedom. In conjunction with the freedom to daydream under the influence of dope, movies and the radio, it will help to reconcile his subjects to the servitude which is their fate."

Sensual, earth-centered values are anything but new to the human race. Pagan cultures have indulged in sexual promiscuity along with occult rituals since the beginning of history. And whenever God's people in Old Testament times turned away from their Shepherd, they were soon caught up in the same deadly lusts that corrupted their pagan neighbors. We see the same cultural decay here and now, and the New Testament explains the process:

- "although they knew God, they
- "did not glorify Him as God
- "became futile in their thoughts
- "claimed to be wise... became fools
- "exchanged the truth of God for a lie
- "worshipped and served created things
- "Therefore God GAVE THEM OVER to

1. "the lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies among themselves
2. "vile passions. committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error.
3. "a debased mind being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual immorality, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness. they are whisperers, backbiters, haters of God, violent, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, undiscerning, untrustworthy, unloving, unforgiving, unmerciful; who not only do the same but also approve of those who practice them." Our children are not immune to the world's seductive messages. Many hear the same tempting promises and the alluring voices that others hear and follow. They, too, want friends and fun. So when the tempting promises ring out day after day, week after week, they start to sound both true and natural.

Concerned about their spiritual safety, our Shepherd reminds them: "Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God." (Romans 12:2-3)

Unless we help our children build a mental framework and filter based on biblical truth, the world's philosophies will probably squeeze them into its mold. It takes discernment, diligence, and delight in God to stand firm in His truth when friends choose to follow their feelings. But those who have chosen to stand firm, wear His armor, trust His promises, and follow Him no matter what, will be led by the Shepherd in a peace and triumph the world can never understand.

"If our churches and schools don't teach the truth and quit saying it is not our place, no one else will; especially with what is happening in our schools and home. And God knows, he'll hold you responsible. Therefore, I press on your soul to copy and distribute the Sexuality Series in your congregations, meetings, schools and other areas, as much as possible. Your eternal reward will not go unnoticed, as we combat the hedonism of our day and bring godly values in our children again" - Oneil McQuick.

DATING AND FREEDOM

SS # 1

I call the teenage years and single years the rebirth of one's self (personal renaissance). Meaning, it is at this point that one really realizes that they exist. It is really at this point that the last stage of shaping one's mind really develops. So much so that the great King of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar, captured and tried to use some of the wisest men of Israel. Among the most intellectual were Daniel, and the three Hebrew boys who were thrown in the fire unburnt. When they were captured, they were all under fifteen years of age. After Nebuchadnezzar's three years 'brain-washing' conversion strategy, some were barely over fifteen years of age. This youth brain washing strategy is key to controlling the masses and most effective. In fact, Adolph Hitler knew it and said that if he got a generation of youths, he could take over the world. In other words, manipulation of the masses can only be successful, if their minds were already fashioned while being a youth.

Why? It is at this point that one is most vulnerable to learn anything lasting and once shaped, it can hardly break. It's at the teenage years that the clay is almost hard, so the last reshaping must take place. Your mind could be marred forever, so this part of one's life must be dealt with caution and not carelessly, as it is treated today - with long lines of sensual partners from the preteens.

Why at this most vulnerable time should one be seeking to know someone else, when one hardly knows him or her self? Why should teens seek to get their minds emotionally entangled when they don't know: 1) where they're coming from 2) why they're here and 3) where they're going? Why not spend some time seeking the will of God for your life, which might take years, especially depending on the enormity of God's purpose in your life?

Not doing this may be the reason we have so many dysfunctional adults ("teenults"), because in their teenage years, whether directly or indirectly, they were yanked away from themselves, in relation to God. Pulled from godly self-discovery and being established in adulthood preliminaries. These years are called adolescence, by interpretation that should read "adult-lessons" and not "adulthood."

One of the reasons they were yanked away from themselves is peer pressure and societal influences. Yes, teens might object, but if they lived in an environment where there is no nudity and sex on television, no 'porn' on the web and in magazines, no public display of nasty affection, no improperly covered persons walking the streets, less stress on self vainly and much reverence for God, one wouldn't even feel like having a boy or girl friend; much more pre-marital sex.

On the other hand, some persons coming from a background where their parents are ministers usually fall prey to unwed children and many shocking occurrences, contrary to their parents' belief. Why? All their lives, they may have been sheltered: church, school, home, church outings. Such a person sees no evil, speaks no evil and hears no evil; consequently they do no evil. And stupidly, the parents didn't tell them of the many evils. So when the opportunity arose to be exposed, BAM! They had no mechanism to deal with what the real world is about (mostly in remote countries with Christian teens going off to school in the West). Notice also that without the influence of evil (TV, cable, web, print, fad) they did no evil. But when the exposure came, without knowing about it, many problems arose.

To solve these and other teen problems, take the example of the first man created, Adam. God graced him to walk and talk with him. By this relationship, God declared his purpose, "dominion over the earth." God also graced Adam to work with him in ministry, 'naming every animal'. Adam was so into God that he was not thinking about a mate, but it was God who decided it was not good for him to be alone. From this, four guidelines can be used for teens and singles today. They are:

1. You should first develop an excellent relationship with God, whereby everyday you are in harmony with God as close to the "pre-Adamic" state as possible; which can be found in Christ.
2. You should then search out your purpose, which only God can verify. Do you know that it pleases God when a young person sets their heart and time to find their purpose on earth? This will not go unrewarded.
3. While this is ongoing, strive to be active, mostly in ministry. It might not be your ultimate purpose, but it usually should be something leading up to it. Again, let God verify your purpose and not an arbitrary person. So it means you have to seek to have a relationship with God. Don't you dare let any arbitrary person dictate your purpose and it hasn't been rectified with the creator. Who does one go to for a blue print, the architect or the construction worker? Moreover, you have direct access to the throne of God through Christ, no matter how young you are. Remember the fifteen-year-old boy in the bible, Daniel, he was more in tuned with God than everyone in Babylon.

4. Now, while all this is ongoing, God is on the other side preparing the woman or man that you will just adore. Believe you me, you will, if you believe it. Then when you ask your daddy, God, being in his presence every second, he will just tell you and the peace of God will go with it. Then it won't take forever to get married, for God would have set that compatibility already, not lust; him knowing all things. At least give him that much credit. Notice that God didn't make Eve and tell Adam to go and date her for a while and said, "If you don't like her, I'll make another one for you, dearest." No, when God made Eve, Adam exclaimed, "WO!" "MAN!" And so females were called from that point (don't quote me on that, though this is becoming a cliché). In other words, one would not take apart a merchandise to try and know it really well before buying it; instead, just go to the maker and he will tell you where, how, what type and when to obtain it. Then you can trust the maker, for he is the one who made the "specs". Would you go to a device and ask, "What is your purpose in relation to me?" Could it tell you? The same principle applies to you in relation to finding a mate. Go to God! Also, I found out something great while listening to the bible on my MP3 CD player recently. It said, "Whoso findeth a wife ... obtaineth favour of the LORD" (Pro 18:22). Then it dawned on me, nothing on earth - principles, steps, intuition, outward appearances or anything will guarantee you a real spouse. But what actually happens is that anyone who marries the right person did so because God grants him or her favor; they had nothing to do with it. In other words, he likes you so he makes sure nothing ties themselves to you that is not good, only the real thing. And believe you me, I've learnt that finding the right person for you is impossible. That's the reason the verse does use the word "findeth," indicating you doing something, but put it back into true perspective by saying you really had nothing to do with it but simply "obtaineth favour." Therefore, if you really want a good spouse, strive to please God.

So, from these four guidelines, it all boils down to this bible verse, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt 6:33). With the Kingdom come blessings. Again, believe me, IT REALLY WORKS! By the way, seeking is not a one-time thing.

Having written all that I must draw your attention again to Daniel and the three Hebrew boys, whom I admire, although Babylon tried to infiltrate their minds with Babylonian doctrines and lifestyles, they did not 'bow'. They were just teens, but with God anything is possible. With God you can stand on his word. Don't give into peer pressure, give into God and stand on his word. For his word is sure and stands forever. Leave the boyfriend and girlfriend mentality until you have completed your Adam experience - knowing what God has called you to do, unequivocally. Leave it alone until you have had your mind exercised to discern between good and evil. Leave it alone until God 'hooks' you up with the right person. Then you don't have to worry if the person will look attractive or be compatible. All that is good and perfect comes from him (James 1:17). Moreover, God will give you the desires of your heart (Ps 37:4). In fact, Christ was recorded as saying that if anyone has a son and he asked for bread, would that parent give him stones, or scorpions for eggs (Lk 11:11-13). In other words, will God give you something to hurt you or that is not years on end satisfying? No. God will only give you the best.

If this were applied to our present generation, the divorce rate would be zero. Frankly suggesting that marriages that result in divorce have failed to apply this principle of seeking God totally, and developing a clear relationship; which can only be sanctioned by being truly saved (acts 2:38).

In concluding, dating should be corner-stoned on first seeking godly dialogue. It should also result in marriage. Dating for the sake of dating is unadvisable and endangers your soul. My advice to teens and young adults is to wait on the Lord (YAH).

I AM FREE OR AM I?

I am free or am I? This is the notion entering the minds of singles and teens today. The burning desire to be free to do our own thing is pressing in our mind. A freedom to express ourselves as we feel, to choose an intimate partner as the need arise, to let our voices be heard and to basically be 'me', as dangerous as that might sound. We can obviously see this egotistic and non-altruistic dogma being glorified on the world stages (TV, cable, web, print, and fad). But proverb 14:14 states, "A good man shall be satisfied from himself."

Being a single Christian is one of the greatest times in our lives. It is a time to really get to know our God and ourselves. From birth we were taught what to do, how to do it, how to act, what not to say and so on. Worse if you grew up in the church. Therefore, we have formed an influx of masks and facades, leaving little room to know our true potential in the Lord. Becoming a young adult, with sudden changes in our lives and bodies, makes it even more difficult to keep up with the childhood masks and facades.

One minute you're in a training bra, the next minute your chest is bulging over the rest of your body. From smooth baby cheeks to the annoying ritual of shaving. One minute you're preparing for your high school finals and the prom, the next minute you're working eight hours a day plus going to school full time and involved in ministry. We as singles have allowed ourselves to be bombarded and interrupted in our lives with so many stuff that could be avoided.

We just got out of class, heading seven miles home to get ready to go to church, then hurrying to leave church; in between travel, beepers, cell phones and emails interrupt us. Then we take this fast paced lifestyle into marriage. Therefore, not getting to know God, yourself and your spouse; even worse, the upcoming sibling.

Did you know that a study was done to a group of laboratory mice pertaining to the above, I heard on a radio program? They were given the same amount of interruptions an average American go through each day. Guess what? Those mice went CRAZY!

Single saints, this is a time to know yourself and know your God. "For the people that know their God shall be strong and do exploits" (Dan 11:32). It is a time to watch and pray lest the maker comes back upon you unaware.

Seeking God means spending time with him in prayer, meditation, fasting and feasting on the word. Fleeing youthful lusts means fleeing your youth, today's style; for all that is in today's youths are lusts. No wonder the Hebrew boys are considered men from the age of thirteen and given its due responsibilities; not necessarily sanctioning that.

God is calling all young singles to seek him. He is beckoning to you to "come out from among them" and "seek ye my face." Will you answer the master's call? Will you take the time to realize that you are special and God loves you and personally hand picked you? Will you seek him until you can say to him, "let me decrease and you increase?" Will you find grace to discipline yourself to forsake all in total consecration to him, and at the end, utter in passionate anguish, "OH THAT I MAY KNOW HIM!" This release will be your freedom.

LOVE EXPLAINED & MORE ON SEX

Love can take the form of many meanings. In fact, the Greeks have ten different words that mean love. But love generally has one meaning, universally. If we were to do a survey on the word love to our teenage population, then the frequent answer would be a deep intimate or sexual attraction to the opposite sex. Sorry to say when one refers to the dictionary it relates the same thing. But love is much more than that. The sexual part is only a minute aspect of love; which can be categorized as Eros. You see many misinterpret the concept of love that's why there are so many divorces, breakups, women turning to women, men turning to men; and an act of this is "Anal love" and sorry to say we see the word love being used in a derogatory state to God.

But love is much more than that; love is from God. If we exercise real love, then "Eros" would be much more complete or fulfilling; if we would care for our neighbors; if we could share with our neighbors; if we could be much more patient and understanding. This can be defined as "philos", meaning, brotherly love. However, even devils "look-out" for one another and there's some honor among thieves. Real love comes from above ("agape"), for true love is to love God (YAH). Because if we love God, really love God, then we would obey his commandments; especially the one that says love thy neighbor as thyself. If we love God who we cannot see, how much easier to love what we can see. If we love God yet we are ungrateful to his truth, then we are insincere and worthy to be called hypocrites. The synonymous thing happens when we say we love God yet despise our neighbors. We are hypocrites.

I frequently prayed about receiving perfect love. But most biblical teachers refer to God as the Perfect Love. I could never be equal to God, in and of myself. Therefore searching and trying for this perfect love is all in vain because there is one perfect love, as there is only one who is good (Matt 19:17). Then there's another time I ask for real love to seal the commandments in my heart. You see, if you have real love then sin is no longer a shackle: that is, idolatry, profanity of God's name, murder, adultery, stealing, lies, covetousness and others. Because committing these acts would either mean not loving God, not loving your neighbor or not loving yourself.

It is written that if you receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost, the laws are placed in your most inward parts; then you would keep it. But I have seen many with the Holy Ghost, including myself, fall short of showing love at times. It was after a study on Justification I knew what that meant. Upon salvation and thus justification, the laws are placed in your heart when you get saved, that is, an inclination to live holy. But also, God wipes away for all times, the final consequences of sin even if you fall short. That is, God first demonstrated his love to us by removing the consequences of the law, which is death, regardless if you have sinned. In other words, because of your sin, justice demands satisfaction and you must burn in hell's fire (Rev 21:8); but if you are saved, God gives you a mechanism to want to live holy, his spirit. And if while alive, you somehow sin, it would have been already pardoned. He removed the burden of death and pardoned our transgressions for all times. Whereby John could have said, "And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous" (1 John 2:1). In fact, once sins are remitted (Acts 2:38), you are perfect forever; "For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified" (Heb 10:14). This is justification. With such love shown to mankind, we ought to strive to love God and Man. Some of us think we have the first part covered, that is, loving God; with our fasting, prayer and sanctimonious lives. But if you don't love others, you haven't begun to love God. But how do we love others?

Christ said that when a man lay down his life for his brother, there's no other love that is greater. But there must be a simpler way. Some would say smiling, saying hello, hugging or even a gentle kiss. But then after doing that we forget and gossip behind that persons back; when "push come to shove" the little that we have we don't want to share, and when we want to elevate ourselves we bring down the other person. What I have found out is that the little things make up love, comforting somebody when they're down; sharing something with somebody knowing that after sharing, it leaves you with little or nothing substantial; and many more things. Therefore, fulfilling a weaker person's need the best way you can, or even bridling your tongue when the conversation gets juicy. You gave when you couldn't; you smiled when you couldn't; you tried when you couldn't.

LOVE THEREFORE IS A SACRIFICE, loving when physically and emotionally, you were unable to. It makes a parent happier, a friendship better, an intimate relationship better; you are more pleased and pure in your heart, but most of all, GOD IS PLEASED!!! Loving sacrificially is real love, clearly proven by Christ death on the cross. Not only did a man die for you, but also, GOD ALMIGHTY came off his throne and robed himself in filthy flesh, to save beings that he could have just wipe out in a second and start over. That is sacrifice! That is being a friend. Actually, in the Old language the word for love is "freon" from which the word friend is derived. And to those married couples and potentials that are seeking something sexual from this thesis, your partner would greatly satisfy you in bed if you would love sacrificially.

Here is some more from an old book I borrowed from someone who was reading it at this person's salon (Janet) and I borrowed it there to look at it and jotted down the following, which is absolutely true and should be read and digested:

[To love others, you must first love your self. Here are some signs that you don't.] People who have not learnt to love themselves or esteem themselves do or are:

1. Exaggerating or bragging - wants recognition

2. A critical attitude - self-explanatory.
3. Rationalization - asses worth on his ability to perform
4. Perfectionism - perfection is an assumed condition for recognition
5. Shyness - self-explanatory.
6. Self-Depreciation - They paint a painful or depressing condition of self that no one will criticize them or even offer pity
7. Anger - hate self and others
8. Defensive docility - become a submissive observer of every regulation, law and rule with mechanical precision. He attempts to be completely good and obedient to alleviate criticism.
9. Becoming a loner - self-explanatory.
10. Over achieving - make up for failure and seek attention.
11. Masks, roles, and facades - Puts forward a mask that if someone criticize they wont feel bad because it's not their real self.
12. Introjections - Dissatisfied with himself, tends to identify with someone else, preferable a public figure.
13. Absolute agreeability - playing the all-time nice person after agreement on any subject for recognition.
14. Cynicism, suspicion - no value of self means no trust of self. He believes and trust no one.
15. Timidity - reluctance to venture to undertake new projects (also in terms of relationships). Afraid to love and afraid to be loved. Danger of ultimate failure and rejection. Cut off from reality by his fear. He is afraid to express himself because he might make a mistake or someone might challenge him.

[Love is absolutely vital and must be achieved, from self, others or even a significant other. Why?]
Failure to be loved brings about:

1. Depression
2. Anger and Antisocial behavior
3. Insanity
4. Physical sickness - psychological pain of failure is translated into physical symptoms, much easier to bear.

[You might say you have achieved this vital element and still deficient in the above areas. One, because you attribute the wrong things to love.] Thesis of Love:

1. Love is not a feeling
2. Love is a decision - commitment
3. Effective love is unconditional
4. Love is forever (not conditional)
5. The commitment of love involves decisions....decisions.....decisions
6. The essential gift of love is a sense of personal worth - the relationship allows you to love and accept self.
7. Love means the affirmation, not the possession of the one loved - (give freedom of self, to love others and others to love you).

[You might say you have achieved this vital element and still deficient in the above areas. Two, because you attribute the wrong things to love.] Counterfeit of love:

1. Physical conquest - (mainly sexual pleasure)
2. Psychological conquest - (Psychologically get him/her to fall in love; after that is won everything is over.)
3. Projected image - (The person is an image of what he or she expects of a spouse. Fall in love with that and not the real person.)

[Three, you might still be deficient in the above areas because you yourself is repressing or holding back the push to love and be loved] Reasons for our repression (i.e. of emotions):

1. We have been programmed to do this (Parents early indoctrinations, especially the first five years a child from a non-demonstrative family will repress emotion; a child from a irate fighting family will repress gentle emotions of compassion.)
2. We "moralize" emotions depending on background some feelings are good and some bad. For instance, it is good to feel grateful but bad to feel angry or jealous.
3. The final consideration that prompts us to deny certain valid human feelings is a "value conflict." For example, if I'm pass a certain age or become a man I must act or behave a certain way.

4. [Or, one may have been hurt by someone, probably in a pass relationship in reaching out to love or be loved. This shouldn't be a reason to not love again. You can begin again!]

"Answering the call to love demands much courage and determination because self-exposure always involves a risk of being seriously hurt. But without transparency love is impossible."

MORE ON SEX

In my humble opinion, relationship and sex needs to be more addressed and taught blatantly. This is the age where "everything is right in the eyes of a man"; from pornography to homosexual marriages. Sex is everywhere: Media, schools, homes, work places and even churches. The days of guessing and hoping are over. "Boy must meet girl." But if they are taught properly with given reservations and bearing in mind innocents, then half the unexpected pregnancies, abortions, intimate feuds and other serious disasters can be avoided.

What we have gotten thus far is the textbook teaching. I would love to see mature women of our congregations, rest their "never-done-that-attitudes", get down-to-earth with our young girls and say, "sister I went through fornication and abortion, coupled with pain, shame, suffering and disgrace, it isn't worth it and who knows if you'd get a chance like me to repent!" I'm almost certain that sister would think twice about sexual endeavors after such a conversation.

Brothers need to stop bragging about their sexual conquests while unsaved. This usually fosters doubt and insecurity in faithful brothers who are virgins. If these brothers even know what they had done, they would be quiet. One ugly spin-off from this, I heard, is a belief in the "taste before buy theory." [Or, as heard one night by a comedian on J. Kimmel in 2005, "test drive before you buy."] That is, you must have sex with the partner before marriage to see if you're compatible. Utter Garbage! It must be stopped and I rebuke it totally. Sisters beware of such monsters! [Notice also that when you go to the New Cars sale lot, the car you test is not the one you actually buy, but one like it with low mileage and better condition. Such detrimental notions need to be wiped out of the minds of our populace.]

Let me explain a little about fornication beside the sure fact that an ardent fornicator WILL reside in hell's fire. Sex is one of the main vehicles for strong demonic transportation. In other words, when you have sex with a prostitute or anyone, the evil spirits within that person are transmitted to you; much like spiritual HIV - no protection against this one but abstinence. This is the reason some satanic churches position a naked woman at their altars for members to sex her, even more than once; and members have sex amongst themselves openly and freely during their ungodly service. This is used to transmit demons; unaware to most members and especially the new convert. The same thing happens to any perfectly normal person that dares to cross the line.

Secondly, there are two things God binds himself to honor; they are, consummation (sex) and marriage. In the 'Bible days' one wasn't really married unless the marriage was consummated. In essence, consummation is what really seals a marriage and bind God to his word. Now, any time you have decided to consummate (have sex) you have bonded yourself to that partner for life. A 'piece' of that person's spirit is still with you. That is why Paul said, "Know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? For two, saith he, shall be one flesh" (1 Cor

6:16). This clearly spoke of sexual activity and not the normal notion of marriage. In other words, there is NO such thing as "pre-marital sex." You have sex, you have a lifetime soul partner. The implications are terrifying. Suppose a former 'playboy' decides to marry a nice young sister, she being unregenerated. What he will do is carry all the demons and fraction of souls from many past acquaintances, that marriage is bound to fail, if God doesn't allow it. They are even far more serious implications. Watch it! In my opinion, it's just not worth it! "Bragging Brothers," heed to 1 Corinthians 5:2, "And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned."

Teachers and leaders I implore you to be more frank in teaching such topics. Don't be afraid to tell the "naked truth." Speaking from your former experiences really help the youths a lot, be it good or bad. Stop calling the penis "John," or "a third in a bunch bowl" and call these things as is. Be straight with youths and show them the dangers of unwed sexual activities. It's not just a matter of life and death, but a matter of life versus life. One innocent life could jeopardize many innocent lives.

Youths, as Paul warned us, flee youthful lust. In other words, flee your foolish youthful tendencies; for all that is in them is lust and more lusts. Don't ever think you're too strong either. The best of us have fallen and fortunately live to tell about it; you might not have that chance!

SEXUAL CONDUCT

I read on a cyber group were a young boy, looking help, said he wanted to have sex with his mother and it was driving him wild. He asked the group should he do it, "as she was hot," or should he not? The responses from these perverts enraged me so much that I basically lashed out against them in anger and condemned them to hell. Especially when one replied that he 'did it' with his mother several times after the death of their dad and they even had a child together. Man, I felt I could just strangle him myself rather than give that pleasure to satan. Afterwards, love got the better of me and I realize what Paul said, "In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; And that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will" (2 Tim 2:25-26). Having sexual relations among family members (incest) is forbidden by God and of course, like all sins, it will cost you eternity in Hell's fire; not to mention disgrace on earth.

Another disgusting thing I've notice among the Internet is the frequent number of bestiality (having sex with animals) porn sites. At first I was enraged and still am, but I still have to condescend to the quote Paul made above. Humans captivated by lust can do the most disgraceful and sinful acts. Bestiality is a sin, leave the animals to their kind and find a human mate. Of course, these practices will cost you just the same as incest.

Our youths and populace have gotten so out of control with sexuality, it might reach to the levels of Sodom and Gomorrah, with its known destruction. The sexual revolution has hampered out societies so badly, God himself must be crying at this hedonism and destruction of our youths and people. Just notice this article:

"Some American youths, for example, blithely speak of 'hooking up' - a harmless-sounding euphemism for casual sex. They talk about having 'a friend with benefits' - a sexual partner who makes no emotional demands. Author Scott Walter describes the orgy like parties some suburban youths throw while their parents are at work. At one such party, a young girl announced that "she was going to have sex with all the boys there....Children as young as 12 were involved in the parties. Shocking? Not to experts who have studied teenage sexual behavior. 'Over the past 20 years,' writes Dr. Andrea Pennington, 'we have seen the average age for teenagers engaging in sexual activity grow younger and younger. It is no longer unusual to find boys and girls starting out as young as 12 years of age.' Particularly distressing was a report in the newspaper USA Today: 'Increasing numbers of the country's youngest teens...are having oral sex....Kids have convinced themselves that 'this is not really sex'.' According to one survey of 10,000 girls, 'eighty percent said they are virgins, but 25% have had oral sex. And 27% described that act as 'something you do with a guy for fun'" (Awake, handed to me 2005).

Surprisingly, this has been the underline agenda of the media, whether they know it or not. With shows like "Sex and the City" or even more fitting,

"Friends," as in 'friends with benefit': Everybody sleeping with everybody, sexual partners with no emotional demands.

The following are a list of sexual sins GOD wants us to avoid. To tell the truth, one might say it's keeping the law, not in the strictest sense, because no one can really "keep the law fully;" in and of themselves. And no one can really refrain from these sins except they are born again. Keeping from these sins won't save you, nor put you in heaven, being born again will (Acts 2:38). However, being captivated by these sins will lead you to hell's fire, and once captivated, only Christ can break it. The Law is eternal and so are the consequences. When grace came to man, through Christ, it was to instruct us and empower us to follow it. The scripture taught us this, "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, Teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world" (Titus 2:11-12). Therefore, grace through salvation is not a weak element. But it is to tell us that what we are doing is wrong, and we need to change. It's my hope that you not only see the downfall of your actions if you're at fault, but also realize that you are really sinning and hurting God, yourself and others. Then cry out to Christ to save you!

SEXUAL CONDUCT AS PER GOD

First Word

1. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
2. Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the LORD your God.
3. After the doings of the land of Egypt, where in ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances.

4. Ye shall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.
5. Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments: which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am the LORD.

Incest

6. None of you shall approach to any that is near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedness: I am the LORD.
7. The nakedness of thy father, or the nakedness of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover: she is thy mother; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.
8. The nakedness of thy father's wife shall thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedness.
9. The nakedness of thy sister, the daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover.
10. The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover: for theirs is thine own nakedness.
11. The nakedness of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, she is thy sister, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.
12. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's sister: she is thy father's near kinswoman.
13. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister: for she is thy mother's near kinswoman.
14. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's brother, thou shalt not approach to his wife: she is thine aunt.
15. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy daughter in law: she is thy son's wife; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

16. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedness.
17. Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter, neither shalt thou take her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness; for they are her near kinswomen: it is wickedness.
18. Neither shalt thou take a wife to her sister, to vex her, to uncover her nakedness, beside the other in her life time.

Adultery

20. Moreover thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyself with her.

Homosexuality

22. Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.

Bestiality

23. Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion.

Final Word

24. Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you:
25. And the land is defiled: therefore I do visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants.
26. Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you:

27. (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled;)
28. That the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you.
29. For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit [them] shall be cut off from among their people.
30. Therefore shall ye keep mine ordinance, that ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye defile not yourselves therein: I am the LORD [Yah] your God (Leviticus 18:1-30).

In other words, from the outline given by God, through Moses, the following are wrong:

Incest: Having sex with family members.

Adultery: Having sex or an intimate relationship with another person than your spouse, while being married.

Homosexuality: Also known as Gays, Lesbians, Dykes, Faggots, Sodomites, "BattyMen," Bisexuals, Bicurious, Tranny, queer, Transgender and other names. These terms may vary, but generally, they all have sexual relations with the same sex they were born in. That is, men having sex with men and women having sex with women (See SS # 5).

Bestiality: Having sex with animals. Example, a man and a dog having intercourse.

One of the most famous God forbidden sexual conduct is not named above, but recorded forty times in the New Testament alone. The others above needed explanation, but this one is known and more prevalent than all. That is, fornication. Fornication is having sex before marriage. All sexual conduct should be in marriage, otherwise it is dangerous (see SS # 2). They are even spin-offs and some preliminaries that some don't consider fornication. However, let God's word and common sense now prevail.

"But fornication, and all uncleanness...let it not be once named among you...neither filthiness" (Eph 5:3-4).

SEXUAL CONDUCT AS PER GOD 2

First Word

"For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication" (1 Thes 4:3).

Foreplay, Feeling Up, Erotic Talk, Erotic Dance, Sensual Massages

"That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour" (1 Thes 4:4).

Oral Sex

"Not in the Lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles which know not God" (1 Thes 4:5).

Anal Sex

"Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonour their own bodies between themselves" (Rom 1:24).

Acute Masturbation with self or Masturbation with others

"Now the works of the flesh are manifest which are these: adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness (lusts)...they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (Gal 5:19-21).

Sex Toys

Prostitution

"For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person...hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ" (Eph 5:5).

Orgies (Battery)

"Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness...they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same but, have pleasure in them that do them" (Rom 1:29).

Date Rape or use of Sex Drugs

"Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness" (Habakkuk 2:15).

Pedophilia

"God has not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness" (1 Thes 4:7).

Pornography

"I will set no wicked thing before mine eyes" (Psalms 101:3).

Dressing Sexy

"In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel...sobriety" (1 Tim 2:9).

Final Word

"Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence (sexual lusts), and covetousness (lust), which is idolatry: For which things sake the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience" (Col 3:5-6).

In other words, from the outline given by God, all the following are wrong; and most can just be grouped under sexual lusts.

Foreplay, Feeling Up, Erotic Talk, Erotic Dance, Sensual Massages: Though what is generally termed intercourse hasn't taken place, it's hardly unlikely that this will not occur between two people engaging in these acts. And even if intercourse doesn't actually happen, such behavior is not "tolerable" to the spirit of God and characterize what "becometh saints". To describe it as sin might not be plainly stated, but we implicitly know it is wrong. This include 'feeling up,' Erotic talk (even phone sex), Erotic Dancing, Sensual Massages (even at hotels/resorts) and many more creative ways.

Oral Sex: Oral Sex between two unmarried individuals can be categorized as sex, though there is no normal penetration. Oral sex is mouth to genital intercourse, either tongue in the vagina or a penis in the mouth; sensually stimulated to orgasm. For unmarried saints, this is totally condemned. Now, for centuries it has also been condemned by the church for married couples as well. However, there is a verse in the bible where it actually takes place and from that experience it seems that it was normal between couples. It reads, "she came softly and uncovered his feet (genital area), and laid her down. And it came to pass at midnight, that the man was afraid, and turned himself: and behold, a woman lay at his feet. And he said, who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmaiden: spread therefore thy skirt over thine handmaiden [she was under him pleasuring him]" (Ruth 3:7-9). It's obvious from this biblical scene that oral sex was not only taking place, but acceptable to those of the biblical "elite". This is not the only reason it would be accepted amongst married couples today, but also, the scriptures say, "Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled." Meaning, in the bedroom of the married couple, only there, all sexual activities of all sorts can take place. Except things like anal sex and having a third person involved (adultery).

Anal Sex: Basically, instead of the man having intercourse through the vagina of the woman, he opt to penetrate her anus or what we call "bottom"; the same activity that takes place with homosexual men. To add to this, there is something called 'anal fisting' and 'analingus'. Anal fisting is simply masturbation with the anus; the use of your hands or a partner's hands, to erotically "finger" the anus. Analingus is simply oral sex, but with the anus.

Acute Masturbation with self or masturbation with others: It basically entails sexual desires or lust; while aroused, the person then stimulate their genitals until orgasm and/or ejaculation occurs. This is one of those things not explicitly stated in the bible and of such has not been dealt with. It thus can't be said to be a sin, but the physical and mental activities involved cannot be conducive to God or what "becometh of saints;" especially in the state of being acute. Unfortunately, given today's sex driven society, it happens. But you should take hold of it before it takes hold of you. See SS # 4. What I've also learnt online, is that a young girl will use her hands to help a young male acquaintance masturbate, and vice versa. This is called a "hand-job." As oral sex between the unmarried was dismissed, so is aided masturbation. Such activities should never be named among the believers. Moreover, aided masturbation will most often lead to the real thing the next time. Another thing cited was that nurses in hospitals were giving aided masturbation to bed ridden patients, and in some cases, it was a requirement or prescribed. Nothing on earth can justify this. If sperms build up in the testicles, it get filters out through the urine and even ejaculated while sleeping; sometimes without a sex dream. Saints, we should strive as much as possible to flee these things.

Sex Toys: These are also aids to masturbation. For example, Dildo and vibrators for women; pumps and life size dolls for men. They are many more but should be avoided by the saints, even the married.

Prostitution: This is basically a man or woman selling their bodies to sex for money. Both the prostitute or one who buys from him/her, is in danger of hell's fire.

Orgies (battery): This is not only fornication, but fornication or sex with many people at the same time. Considered group sex.

Date Rape or use of Sex Drugs: Basically, going out on a date with a friend and the friend placed an anesthetic or psychoactive drug in your drink, or vice versa. While passed out, because of that drink, that person is sexed. It's not just fornication, but rape; both sins that will guarantee you a place in hell's fires. The synonymous thing happens when one uses an electrical device (E.g. stun gun) or even hypnosis, to put someone in partial consciousness, to sex them.

Pedophilia: Pedophiles or pedophilia, is someone who dares to have sex or do anything sexual with a child. For instance, a 38 year old man having sex with a 7 year old girl. I can see the reason for that man having sexual relations with a mature 17 year old (which is statutory rape); because of her obvious womanly features. But it takes a sick demented demon to attach itself to a man to make him approach a 7 year old girl sexually. At this point, the child hasn't even begun to sprout breasts, much more to have a developed vagina to receive an adult penis. This is not only a crime on earth, but such behavior is condemned by God. During my 2002 sexually elicit web research, I came across a few 'pedo' sites and was discussed to the core and thoroughly enraged. The people of the world has gotten so hedonistic that even the babies in the womb are having sex; with late pregnant women posing nude, having sex and even spraying their baby's milk at each other, from their breasts. Such acts and pedophilia is just simple devilry and utter evil. No human on their own could do such acts. I was so enraged that I made a page on how to fight pornography, pedophilia in general. I sent all those sites to several agencies, including the FBI; to the point that one agency (Pusey) blasted me not to email them anymore. Some of the sites were taken down and others weren't. When I asked one agency why some of these site haven't been take down. They replied that they have little control over it, they are too many sites, even outside the country; and they keep putting them back up. All this, even though pedophilia is a crime. Also, though not pedophilia, having sex with an adult who is disabled (e.g. retardation) or deformed to the point of actually being a child, is wrong; even if they give "consent." Saints, people of God, let these thing not be named among you. Here is the link to the page on how to fight porn, more specifically, pedophilia porn, in general:

<http://www.threeeq.com/pages/noporn.html>

Pornography: This is not a physical sexual activity, but just as weighty to its implications. For it leads to all of the above. It's looking not only at naked people for arousal, but people having senseless sex with each other; through the magazines, videos, cable, TV and internet.

SS FILE # 3

Don't have much space to tackle this but it is a sore problem that has greatly influence the latter hedonism of our days. Just notice these from xxxchurch.com and one from awake:

- Number of pornographic web sites: 280 Million.
- People who regularly visit Internet porn web sites daily: 40 million.
- US porn revenue exceeds the combined revenues of ABC, CBS, and NBC at $6.2 billion.
- 70% of children said their parents knew "very little or nothing" about their online activities. 30% of 9 to 10 year-olds said that they visited private and adults-only chat rooms. The problem gets worse with 58% of 11 to 12 year-olds, 70% of 13 to 14 years-old, and 72% of 15 to 17 years-old reporting such activity (Awake, Moll from Phi Delta Kappan, handed to me 2005).

The adults are one thing, but parents and schools, please assist our society by keeping a watch on what your children is viewing online. Growing a future criminal or delinquent will not only hamper your household, but all of us!

Dressing Sexy: Like pornography, this is just as weighty, though unrealized and have even become mainstream; thanks to the media. Break down the very word sexy, it obviously has something to do with or originate with sex appeal. Sex appeal is basically sexual attractiveness. In other words, dressing sexy is not just a fad, but dressing sexy is to dress to entice the opposite sex for sex. Or, you could say, prepped for sex. Today, many would say that is wearing a lingerie or a fetish outfit. But dressing sexy in a tight belly blouse and low cut jeans can have that effect; especially with nipples "printed out" and the underwear lining is visible. Showing half your chest with jeans so low the pubic hair is showing is enticing the opposite sex for sex. What we don't realize is that it has become our culture and we live in a sex driven society. This intent in dressing is not arbitrary, it is a psychological intended process; saying, if you look at me you must want me. The designers do this consciously, or they are engulfed in years of this sexy fad themselves. When this got out of control, dressing sexy became the normal attire. Then you have girls making stupid comments like, "I don't like it, men keep looking at me." What does she expect, if she has on a tight shorts with a thong printing out and skimpy belly blouse. What you are is what you attract. For instance, dodo attracts flies. Similarly, dressing sexy attracts a person with sex on their mind. You don't want to be "hit on", quit dressing sexy. Dressing that way has the opposite sex thinking only one thing - sex - which is the purpose for dressing sexy anyway. Unfortunately, our youths and populace take upon themselves the fads of the day, and thus become victims of fashion. Not knowing their attire is to psychologically stir the erogenous bone in the opposite sex. That's why I applause churches that are "played down," like the UPCI: For they teach their women how to dress godly. Not only preventing the lusts sparks in the opposite sex, but also attire themselves like real godly people. This is a big part in sexual conduct. Dressing modestly lessens you being "hit on", humble your mind, make good ambassadorship to Christ and even keep you from feeling sleazy or horny from your attire; which attracts sex spirits to push you to the next level - sexual intercourse. Most people don't even realize that dressing sexy is more sexually appealing and enticing than being naked. A super model in a lingerie will charge up a man to want her sexually, than that same super model naked. It's a psychological process designers have mastered over the years, and unfortunately, everyone is doing it. Stop from dressing sexy because of the many reasons outlined, but more so stop because of Christ and the God you represent.

Here is a question and answer I found on MSN.com in 2005 after I wrote this in 2004 that proves my point.

"Q. My 13-year-old dresses much too suggestively for her age. She says that's the way all the girls at school are dressing -- and that she has to if she wants to be popular. It's true that when I drop her off I see her friends wearing the same type of clothing -- off-the-shoulder tops, very tight jeans, short skirts, heels, and way too much makeup. I don't know how we got to this point. What can I do?

A. What is your daughter's appearance suggesting? She needs to know. In blunt terms, her attire is revealing her developing sexuality and that she's open to showing it off. To her, her clothing choices most likely mean nothing more than going along with the dictates of her peer group which is strongly influenced by teen idols. Your daughter needs to know that boys see her appearance much differently than her girl peer group. They see it as saying, "I'm interested in sex." Your daughter is entering into a sexual environment for which she is most likely unprepared. Will she know how to protect herself and make conscious choices?" Final Word

Believers, sex is wonderful and should be enjoyed and shared between a man and woman. Unfortunately, evil spirits have corrupted it and our minds desire ungodly things. Flee these ungodly sexual conducts and resist the media dictating to you what sexual conduct is right. God gave his word and that is final. Anything else will only jeopardize your soul in the lake of fire and hamper you in many ways on earth. Is it then worth that small moment of pleasure? It might be hard to resist sexual inappropriateness, take it from someone who has been there, but with God all things are possible. Moreover, fleeing all these ungodly conducts and having sexual intercourse with your wife or husband, is a most beautiful thing created by God.

PARAPHILIA

"Even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient" (Rom 1:28).

Besides the sexual sins listed already, they are some sexual sins that are not normal, most often demonic. They are already covered above, essentially, but these variations have not. They are not just adultery or fornication, but with the weirdest things imaginable. They might not even be fit for "the bed of the married." I thought I saw and heard it all until these appear. They are most often called paraphilias, from the Greek word that means unnormal. These things should not be named among the saints; especially that only a demonically led person would do most of these things, though they might not know it. They are:

1. BDSM:

The term "BDSM" is a clever acronym for three pairs of words: Bondage & Discipline, Dominance & Submission and Sadism & Masochism. They cover a range of activities and relationships enjoyed by friends and lovers, sometimes just in the bedroom, and sometimes flowing into the day-to-day lives of the people involved. Bondage & Discipline refers to two activities: Bondage being tying, chaining, hand-cuffing, gagging or any other way of restraining your partner. Discipline refers to some form of chastisement or punishment; often spanking, caning, paddling or similar. Dominance & Submission refers to a relationship where one partner is dominant, or controlling, and the other partner is submissive, or controlled in some way. Often this plays itself out as the submissive partner serving, or catering for, the needs and desires of the dominant partner. Sadism & Masochism refers to activities which often explore the erotic aspects of pain; even such simple things as nipple tweaking or pinching. They are some alleged distinction in saying BDSM, SM and S & M. But they are all essentially the same thing - inflicting pain or receiving pain during sexual activities. Some of the ways are listed below:

- * Erotic Role-playing (E.g. hostage and terrorist)
- * Spanking
- * Flogging
- * Bondage
- * Femme Domme Perspectives
- * Master/"slave" Role-playing
- * Canes
- * Clips and Clamps
- * Hot Wax and Temperature Play
- * Cock and Ball Torment
- * Whip Cracking
- * Hypnotism
- * Play Space Outfitting

Often the best places to look for ready-made BDSM "toys" and equipment are the larger sex shops and leather shops. Here you'll find riding crops, gags, masks, wrist- and ankle- cuffs, nipple-clamps, floggers, paddles, harnesses, collars and much more.

 and <http://www.sexuality.org/books.html>)

2. Tantric Sex:

Tantric Sex is meditative, spontaneous and intimate lovemaking. Through it you learn to prolong the act of making love and to channel, rather than dissipate. Potent orgasmic energies moving through you, thereby raising the level of your consciousness. Tantra transports your sexuality from the plane of doing to the place of being.

Tantra teaches that lovemaking between a man and woman, when entered into with awareness, is a gateway to both sexual and spiritual ecstasy. In India, traditional Tantrikas spent many years under the guidance of a spiritual teacher and engaged in elaborate yogic rituals to purify and master the body and mind. These practices were intended to awaken the powerful psychic energies through which the adept could enter into higher states of consciousness. When a disciple was deemed ready he or she partook in sexual rites with a partner.

(Source: <http://www.tantra.com/mission/lacroix.html>)

This is nothing but a spin off from a heathenistic devilish practice. Thus, meddling not only with the sanctity of sex, but spiritism. After doing a religion class in 2005, I actually learnt what this evil really is. What these students do is have sex with no emotional attachment, like friends with benefits. They do it for self-discipline, that is have sex then detached and see how well they deal with that. Like charging up your penis by watching porn then put some ice on it, then do that again to control their nature. Did God institute sex to be an experimental abuse between man and woman? So why the Hell these inventors of evil things love to pollute men with garbage! Flee this evil. Not to mention this is fornication, a hell bound sin. If you want physical/emotional/spiritual/soulful control of yourself, seek Christ and become born again.

3. Swinging:

Swinging is a form of recreational social sex between consenting adults, most commonly consisting of male/female couples meeting other male/female couples for sex and/or ongoing intimate friendships. Swinging (otherwise known as "the lifestyle") can take a variety of different forms. Although single women are generally welcome at swinging events, the degree to which single men are accepted varies from club to club. Although female bisexuality is generally accepted in the swinging community, the degree to which male bisexuality is accepted also varies from club to club. Swing clubs can be "on-premises" (which means that one may interact sexually with others at that event) or "off-premises" (which means that one would generally go back to the home or hotel room of other couples for sex, after deciding to do so at the event). Newspapers and magazines which carry personal ads for swingers also exist, and to a slightly lesser degree these publications may also be considered an aspect of "the lifestyle." Swingers have traditionally been largely middle class and tend to blend in quite easily with the general population in terms of appearance and ideology.

(Source: <http://www.sexuality.org/mgswing.html>)

This is not only fornication and/or adultery, but blatant sexual immorality. Segregating and developing a virtual community where there is no sexual conduct: Everybody having sex with everybody on an ongoing basis.

4. Voyeurism or "Peeping Tomism":

Voyeurism involves the act of observing unsuspecting individuals, usually strangers, who may be naked or in the process of disrobing. Even engaging in sexual activity. Masturbation usually occurs during, or shortly after voyeuristic activities. The practice of being a voyeur is also called scopophilia. It is a preoccupation with seeing sex acts or sex organs of others.

(source: http://www.psychnet-uk.com/dsm_iv/voyeurism_disorder.htm and dictionary.com).

The difference with this and pornography is that, the person looks at actual naked people and actual sex acts; as against print, web or TV media. Wanting to look at the opposite sex naked is normal, but when it becomes chronic, captivating, planned and associated with acute masturbation, then it becomes a big problem. Sometimes this leads to rape. Seeing someone naked will arbitrarily happen. But continuing to do so and even plan it, might be obscene and violating the person's closure, if they intend not to be seen.

5. Salirophilia:

The term 'salirophilia' is derived from the French word 'salir', which means 'to pollute'. Thus 'being dirty' is also something that is supremely nice in a secret sort of way. Not only sperm, but also saliva, sweat, vaginal secretion and urine are substances that are commonly considered to be unclean, but enhance arousal in sexual play. Oral sex, which involves the exchange of bodily fluids in the mouth, plays an important role in more advanced sexual activity. Also the whispering of obscene words can cause strong feelings of intimacy or lust. It is not unusual for experienced lovers to pee on each other, to make love wearing dirty clothes, or to cover each other in all kinds of edible or inedible substances.

The most extreme form of salirophilia is probably the eating of excrements (dodo). Even this is not as outlandish as it may seem. A lover in a state of arousal may become highly excited by discovering, during oral sex, minuscule bits of excrements stuck to hairs around the anus of his or her loved one. As with the other variants, salirophilia may become an 'obsession' that is practiced alone or with the help of a prostitute. To defecate in the open air in a deserted place or a forest seems to go along with what is described by the subject as a kind of 'anal' orgasm. Defecating on a prostitute's breasts is an extreme and old form of 'filthy' behavior, which gives some men extraordinary pleasure. Whether it epitomizes the total subservience of women, as many tend to think nowadays, is doubtful. Rather, it is an extreme form of individual, autistic, sexual gratification at the orgasmic stage, in which the self is disconnected from the partner, even though the partner is an essential part of the preceding arousal.

(Source: http://www.nvsh.nl/Website_Engels/Texts/Sexual_Information/Lovemaking/Variants/Variants_3.htm#sal)

I don't have to tell you that salirophilia is wrong, unclean and demonic. Biblically, sexual practices are considered "any-thing-goes" in a marriage, but certain things are just not for human beings to do. Our bodies are the temples of God, "therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's" (1 Cor 6:20).

6. Sensuous Magic:

The definition is unclear, but it involves a little BDSM and even sometimes real magic. Magical experimentation should not be named among the saints (Due 18:9-14). This alone will bring the wrath of God and should be violently avoided. Magic, or the supernatural outside of God, usually involves devils or evil spirits.

7. Necrophilia:

Attraction and sex with dead bodies (or even those in a coma); as sick as that might sound. This normally takes place at a morgue or even cemeteries. (source: www.bigeye.com)

8. Sex With Spirits:

Having sex with spirits is not uncommon as it might sound. I've often read newspaper articles of persons requesting help about spirits having sex with them, physically. Some even enjoyed and entertain it constantly. The majority of persons think it is their dead spouse or mate. But it's actually an evil spirit, taking advantage of humans. An ex-satanist wrote that part of his initiation ceremonial rites was to have sex with spirits, which he did in grave yards. This kind of sexual act, voluntarily, must be the most blasphemous abominable thing a human can do.

9. Coprophilia:

Smell or view of excretion (dodo), or act of defecation for sexual arousal.

(source: www.bigeye.com)

10. Coprophagia:

Eating excretion (dodo) for sexual arousal.

(source: www.bigeye.com)

11. Urophilia:

Also called "Golden Showers" or "water sports," this involves sexual arousals by watching someone urinate or they themselves being "peed" on.

(source: www.bigeye.com)

12. Somnophilia:

Arousal by fondling or having sex with someone who is sleeping.

(source: www.bigeye.com)

13. Frotteurism:

I've seen this often in our circles and even had married women give an intended friendly hug, with this physical sentiment. This is most often done unconsciously. Frotteurism involves a person rubbing against another for feelings of sexual excitement; sometimes rubbing their genitals too. Those who are aware that they are doing it, most often do it in crowds.

14. Nymphomania and Satyriasis:

Nymphomania refers to women and Satyriasis refers to men. Both mean the same thing. That is, having excessive sexual desires. Such a person wants to have sex all the time and sometimes, with any and everybody. This can be bad or good. If driven to have sex every hour with a different person, then it is bad; and often demonically influenced. It might be good for a husband or wife who wants and can keep up with such a spouse. So if you're having sexual desires, that is good, you're human. Paul tells us what to now do, "If they cannot contain, let them marry; for it is better to marry than to burn" (1 Cor 7:9). In other words, if you're burning with passion for the opposite sex, there is nothing wrong with getting married. There is nothing wrong with Sex, now knowing godly sexual conduct.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH IT

I'm not rude, just explicit:
sex needs not to be so tacit
For there's nothing wrong with it. Gen 1:31
God designed it and made it Gen 1: 27-28
It's here for our profit.

Adam was not yet knit,
God saw something wrong with it. Gen 2:18

God will surely judge for it.

If you are already knit.
And even seek another fit,
It's adultery you commit.

You must now repent of it. Matt 5:28

So stay within the limit.
And never you'll regret it. Ps. 119:165

And if they should stray a bit,
You would be the cause of it. Math 5:32

Neither one must lose by it.
Both must have the fun of it.
Each must be temperate in it. 1 Cor 9:25
Give praise and thanks for it. 1 Tim 4:1-5
As we learn in the Holy Writ.

In heaven there'll be none of it. Mark 12:25
Is a fact I must admit.
But why should we fret on it.
When we read in the Holy Writ. Ps 16:11
That heaven's better than it? 1Cor 2:9

Having written this series, don't feel overwhelmed if you have fallen short in one or many of these sins. God is a merciful God, willing to forgive and save anyone that turns to him. Moreover, if space would have permitted I would show you that a great deal of these inappropriate sexual activities are a result of mind control. Just come to Christ as you are.

MASTURBATION

SS # 4

Masturbation basically entails sexual desires or lust; while aroused, the person then stimulates their genitals until orgasm and/or ejaculation occurs.

"Masturbation is not directly mentioned in the Bible. People today have different opinions about if it's a sin or if it's appropriate for a Christian to do. I can only say that it is difficult to masturbate and not entertain adulterous thoughts and images.

I am a 45-year-old male who came to know the Lord when I was 12. At age 14 I was molested by an older cousin, which was my introduction to Masturbation. It didn't take long for me to connect visual images of women I had seen and entertain them as I "Acted Out". I knew this was wrong, and countless times prayed, and begged for God to take this thing away from me. Because my prayers were not answered, I felt I was a failure as a Christian and never developed the relationship I wanted with the Lord. I also became socially inept as I grew into an adult and my view of women was as an object (objectification), than that of a breathing creation of God. It evolved into an addiction with pornography, which only fed the Masturbation, which again fed the pornography. The WEB didn't help either.

Many times I tried to talk to the other men in my accountability group, but I was too afraid to. I didn't know the secrecy of my sin was Satan's stronghold on me. I thought that when I got married I would have a sexual outlet that would replace Masturbation. Instead, Masturbation kept true intimacy with my wife out of our reach. The sin kept me from realizing the truth was that I was now stealing intimacy from her and although I never had a physical affair with another, I was having an affair of the mind.

It was after hearing our youth pastor speak at a men's retreat about how pornography was tearing apart the church and destroying the lives of Christians and non-Christians that I knew I had to talk to him. He told a story of a man who was married and confessed to him that he was addicted to pornography and Masturbation. This man had taken the first and possibly hardest step in getting his sin under control. I would eventually go and talk to the youth pastor, but not until my sin was exposed to my wife and I was kicked out of the home and away from my two children. The youth pastor showed tremendous compassion and understanding as I told him my life story. I left nothing out. He explained that I was not alone and that many were struggling like I was. He helped me find other men to be accountable to. I joined a Christian group for healing from inappropriate sexual behavior. For the last 8 months, by the grace of God, I have easily been able to restrain from Masturbation and pornography. I don't objectify women or daydream of affairs with other women. My relationship with the Lord is growing and my prayer life actually has "Life" to it. I'm not totally cured or completely healed yet, but the Lord is carrying me along that path. God has been so faithful to me these last 8 months. I always knew God could heal me, I just didn't believe that he really would do it for me. He is also healing my marriage. I'm back home, my wife and I talk more openly about things than before and we talk about my problem and how well my healing is going.

and we need other soldiers beside us for all of us to win the battle."

Why am I telling you this? There are people out there in large numbers that are struggling with some type of inappropriate behavior. Don't let the world or weak Christians let you believe that it's okay. If the Holy Spirit is telling you that it's wrong, IT'S WRONG! Find someone to be accountable to. Go and talk to a leader in your church. I recommend a book called "Every Mans Battle". I don't enjoy reading, but I read this book in less than 2 days and it has provided a lot of insight and tools for me in the early days of my recovery.

Ken (From an internet discussion board and site)

I mentioned amen's retreat earlier. Two years later (last March) I spoke about my problem and recovery at our annual men's retreat to 75 men, some High School age. Many men came up to me later and talked to me about current behaviors they were dealing with, or about the recovery they were going through. Many men saw parallels with other issues they were dealing with. Men were talking openly about the thing we Christians don't want to admit to.

The above was from a person called Ken I found on a internet site in 2002-03. May I add, though it is the notion that this only affects men, it affects women as well; personally admitted to me. A dangerous thing has also developed to encourage this for both men and women. That is, sex shops are popping up in our neighborhoods, selling self-help masturbation toys and items; example, dildo for women and plastic dolls for men. Pray them out of your neighborhoods and avoid these outlets. What I've also learnt online, is that a young girl will use her hands to help a young male acquaintance masturbate, and vice versa; a "hand job" they call it. As oral sex between the unmarried was dismissed, so is aided masturbation. Such activities should never be named among the believers. Moreover, aided masturbation will most often lead to the real thing the next time. Another thing cited was that nurses in hospitals were giving aided masturbation to bed ridden patients, and in some cases, it was a requirement or prescribed. This shouldn't be so. If sperms build up in the testicles, it get filters out through the urine and even ejaculated while sleeping; sometimes without a sex dream. Most often, masturbation is caused by a spirit, so deal with it spiritually - fasting, prayer and reading the word.

As one guy puts it, "God made women BEAUTIFUL! And they are an absolute joy for men to look at." But the devil is right there looking for any way he can find to make us stray from being the men of God we need to be. He also told me that I was not the Lone Ranger. I really believe this now. God can and will heal you, if you allow him to. We're soldiers in a battle

HOMOSEXUALS, TRANSGENDERED AND HERMAPHRODITES

SS # 5

After the web elicited research of 2002, I had put up something about homosexuality on my site, from a web page that was very stern; in fact, I don't recall, but it was probably named, YourGoingToHell.com. I thought what was posted was sufficient, as it listed a few scriptures and gave the rightful condemnations.

However, homosexuality has really gotten more complicated since 2002. For instance, notice these headline and excerpts from a copy of a Gay Newspaper, arbitrarily picked up to write this series (Picked up June 18, 2004, Express South Florida):

-Jeb Bush denounces gay "special rights

Florida Gov. Jeb Bush opposes domestic partner benefits, gay adoptions and same sex marriage, according to a constituent letter sent by the governor's office that says he refuses to sanction "this particular lifestyle."

-US Senate again approves hate crime bill

-Geico corrects gay gaffe - Insurance provider softens stands on married gay couples.

After complaints from a gay legal group, insurance provider GEICO direct said this week it would reverse a decision made earlier this month to deny a married gay couple in New York, the same joint coverage offered to married straight couples. GEICO, the Government Employees Insurance Company recognizable by its green gecko mascot, will extend spousal automobile coverage to husband of Thomas Hronrich, according to Christine Tasher, a spokesperson of GEICO. "We are processing the change," Tasher said in a written statement.

The quote above by Tasher, though directed towards paper work, is synonymous to what is happening in our society. Many people are processing the change, or, accepting homosexuality and force to tolerate it.

Homosexuality from Genesis to revelation have been rigorously denounced; and no other sin has been so great that God had to destroy cities. The excuse of not believing in the Bible is lame and fallacious, because alleged priests, ministers and their congregation are turning to this ungodly sodomy in the face of plain biblical truth. If it were to be interpreted or figured out, then some grounds of defense might be laid, but the bible clearly states that it is wrong and the practitioners will burn in the lake of fire. So those who use the line that they don't believe in God or the bible, actually believe, but choose not to follow it. Even though I want to use rational on this topic, it just cannot be used, only the plain truth of God's word. The double xx syndrome have been played out, plus I know and have seen church men with this allege trait, who love women dearly. And the argument that a person is born a homosexual is false and contrary to the godly genetic make up of humans. Abuse is not an excuse either, for men or women. Nothing can rationalize becoming a homosexual.

It is basically a spirit - an invincible intelligent being. These spirits are fallen angels and fallen angels are stronger than men, so they can easily over power men. Therefore, a spirit can directly cause a man to rebel against God's word about homosexuality and they can indirectly cause others to rebel in this sin, by influence and fad. They can also be in fleshly form as a human homosexual; similar to what happened at Sodom. Where, from Genesis 6:4, they saw the "daughters of men," came to them and ungodly incarnated themselves. Seeing that they are not real humans, they can do things contrary to the human built in instinct, at will. Thus, from them, homosexuality was born. With this main sin and other sins they generated at Sodom, with the people, God decided to wipe out that city with fire (Gen 19:24-28).

So, when confronting a homosexual, one is either confronting a fallen angel in flesh; or most often, a human controlled by a homosexual spirit (or fallen angel). Similarly, if such temptations come upon you, it is not natural. It is one of these rebellious spirits wanting to corrupt man, God's word and continue in their folly.

God has often tolerated men in other cases of mass sinning, because such sins are things he instinctively placed in us; and he is the one who subjected us to vanity (Rom 8:20). But he cannot tolerate anything that involves another spirit, things he didn't put in us to want. Like witchcraft, "suffer not a witch to live" - involves another spirit. Or, homosexuality, "the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire" - involves another spirit. For you to want something that is unnatural and uninstinctive, means a devil is involved. For you to want something that is natural or instinctive is normal, but to violently or inappropriately act upon it is devilry; example, rape. Therefore, homosexual feelings and the act of homosexuality is devilry and contrary to how you are; which means any one who is a homosexual is controlled by a spirit. That's why the Apostle Paul noted and condemned this unnatural devilish act (Rom 1:24-32).

This is the reason homosexuals refuse the word of God, because the spirits in them (or you) don't want the word to be heard - change might occur. And that's why you have homosexual clergies, their existence and teachings are fabricated to counteract any hearing of this, or biblical truth. Similar to Sodom, these clergies are most often fallen angels in flesh. They are becoming increasingly influential in politics and other areas; to bring the world into a godless hedonistic state. The greatest victory of theirs is homosexual marriages. They are not only doing their sinful act, but now polluting the sanctity of Marriage with it. Clearly trying to be an affront to God; unaware to the human homosexuals who satan have taken captive "at his will" (2 Tim 2:25-26). Homosexuality is wrong, devilry and all who are part takers will burn in the lake of fire.

From what is written in this series so far, you can see that homosexual behaviors are caused by a spirit. If such feelings are plaguing you or you're a homosexual, save yourself, have that spirit dealt with before you get laden in it and cannot turn to the truth again. Have a true minister from a Holy Ghost filled church bind that spirit, or spirits, and cast it out. Read the bible concerning homosexuality, even if it hurts and you're even getting upset; it's not you being perturbed, it's the spirit. And what the word is doing, unaware to most, is, "piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow" (Heb 4:12). Give up homosexuality! Or Stay clear from it! Live a life God intends for you! "Male and female created he them; and blessed them" (Gen 5:2). God's way is the best - the opposite.

TRANSGENDERED

"The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the LORD thy God" (Due 22:5).

They are three types of abominations stated in the scriptures, 1) To yourself, 2) To men and most importantly, 3) To God.

When the Law was given in the first five books of the Bible, it gave a law and then stated whether it was an abomination or not, in any of the three categories named. When Christ (God) gave us salvation by his death, burial and resurrection, he didn't abolish the law; he came to fulfill it. And what was an abomination [disgusting] unto him then, still is an abomination unto him today.

"Tow`ebah" - is the Hebrew word for abomination; meaning, a "disgusting thing." For instance, one verse said that "the scorner is an abomination to men" (Pr 24:9). In other words, a scornful person is disgusting to people; don't you agree? Another verse stated that "an unjust man is an abomination to the just: and he that is upright in the way is abomination to the wicked" (Pr 29:27). In other words, a wicked man is disgusting to a good man and a good man is disgusting to a wicked man. Again, this is true.

Now, when Jesus said that the entire law is fulfilled in these two commandments, love the Lord thy God with all thy might and all thy heart and love thy neighbor as thy self, he means that any one who does this will keep the entire law. For if you really love God you wouldn't do anything that is disgusting (abomination) to him and if you really love your fellow man you wouldn't do anything to disgust him/her. And, of course, no one would knowingly do anything disgusting to themselves.

Normally, with us, anything that is disgusting we throw away, avoid and dump. The same thing with God at the end of time. Anyone that is disgusting to him he will automatically burn and throw away. However, there is one exception - Born again Christians. Why? "For by one offering he [Christ] hath perfected forever them that are sanctified" (Heb 10:14). In other words, all born again Christians are accepted with God and it's eternal! Therefore, we can never be disgusting to God, through Christ only.

To be disgusting to men and one's self is one thing, but to be disgusting to the almighty God is another. And in his word he clearly states that the woman should not wear men's clothing and neither should the men wear women clothing, for "all that do so are abomination [disgusting] unto the LORD thy God!" (Due 22:5). Given how men and women clothing has evolved the years before and after that verse, it is hard to decipher "gender only clothing." Therefore, God was unequivocally speaking of a purposeful intent to dress up like the opposite sex, commonly called 'Transvestites, androgynists, bigenderists, cross dresser, tranny, drag queens and drag kings'. Some of these persons have a seemingly heterosexuals life. This is because cross-dressing is a part-time, recreational activity for most, and takes place in social space that supports it. Then they are others who take it to the next level and become even more disgusting by having a sex change. They are called transsexuals. Both parties are said to be plagued by transsexualism. What is transsexualism?

Once source said, "Transsexualism is defined as a persistent sense of inappropriateness about one's gender coupled with the desire to acquire the sexual characteristics of the "opposite" sex. The cliché 'a woman trapped in a man's body' or 'a man trapped in a woman's body' is a fairly accurate description of how a transsexual feels. It isn't just that a man likes "feminine" things like cooking or embroidery. Rather, it is that in the transsexual's heart of hearts she or he has the sense that somehow there was a big mistake and that he or she really is a woman or man internally, regardless of the physiology. It's like if a person woke up in the morning having changed sex over the night, but still retained the sense of self they had the night before. That is what it's like to be transsexual."

In other words, transsexuals are insulting God by saying he made a mistake, which is impossible. God is great and greatly to be praised! How dare we play with an effeminate spirit and say we are of a different sex at heart; and take it further to try and fulfill it. God said and is still saying, "for all that do so are abomination [disgusting] unto the LORD thy God;" both the transvestites and the transsexuals, all categorize under transgender.

So the big question is, Can I be a Christian and be transgendered? Or, will a transgendered person make it to heavenly paradise?

NO! Again, "for all that do so are abomination [disgusting] unto the LORD thy God!!!"

Would you put a rotten decayed dead dog into your house before the dining table? That would be disgusting, wouldn't it? The same effect is felt with God, it would be disgusting in his house and to him, and therefore would not have it there. However, he has offered a way for transgender people and everyone to make it in his presence, without being disgusting. It is called salvation. And it starts with Repentance, which is a mental turning from one's former life. That is, having a made up mind to give up transgendering, plus all sins and to follow Christ. After that, he will grant you the power to be saved, if you desire it sincerely. And then and only then can you be accepted in his presence on earth and in heaven. The only exception might be if a repentant transsexual can't honestly afford a reversal surgery, even so, waiting for one. However, they took the initiative to become save (Acts 2:38). Just come as you are.

In addition, only a select list of sins was considered an abomination (disgusting) to the Lord. Reason being, this is not something God placed in us to do. Instinctively he made us sexual beings, so it's natural to desire to have sex with the opposite sex. However, they are laws, for a reason, given to govern sexual behaviors; accepted only within the confines of wedlock between man and woman. In other words, God could understand if a man overtaken in passion had sex with a girl before marriage, though he would still have to pay the price. But, God simply cannot condescend to a man or woman doing that with their same sex, which is unnatural, or contrary to how he instinctively made us. This would be devilish! And he hates it. He made us to want certain things and function certain ways, only a devil can alter that behavior by entice. As Paul confessed that the devil has taken them captive at his will, who oppose themselves (2 Tim 2:25-26); or make them oppose themselves or oppose their God built nature.

The scripture also tells us that "lying lips are an abomination unto the Lord." Why is it disgusting? He didn't make us that way, this trait is demonically inclined. He himself said, "But let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil" (Mat 5:37). Stop transgendering! It's disgusting to God, be a man if you're a man and be a woman if you're a woman. That inner transgendering feeling is an evil spirit, which you cannot see. Or, a fad spawned by a devil. Like homosexuality, seek help and flee these things.

HERMAPHRODITE

Accepted definition: A person born with both male and female sex organs. This is a vague, confusing and inaccurate definition. There are 3 labels of Hermaphrodites: True, Male pseudo and Female Pseudo. All are equally genuine. The term "hermaphrodite" is derived from the ancient Greek myth of Hermaphroditus, son of Hermes and Aphrodite. While bathing, he became united in a single body with a nymph. Hermaphrodites are also known as Hermaphroditos, Hermaphroditus, Hermes, Hermetic, Hermetical, Hermit, Androgynous and "Half and half." The three labels broken down are as follows:

1. True Hermaphrodites

A person born with both ovary and testicular tissue, this could be 2 separate gonads (one of each) or a combination of both in one (an ovotestes). The genitalia can vary from completely male or female, to a combination of both or even ambiguous looking. The chromosome (karotype) compliment can be XX (female), XY (male), XX/XY (mosiac) or even XO (extremely rare). Those XX with female genitalia are raised female (some have even given birth). Those XY with male genitalia are raised male (a few have fathered children). The children born XX/XY or XO (with genitalia male or female are raised in the sex they look most like) ,Those born with ambiguous genitalia have many medical tests for the doctors to determine which sex they should be assigned. Doctors then recommend early surgery to make the child look physically like the sex assigned to them.

Causes

The causes are not known, The medical community does know this is a very rare condition but do not have accurate figures to how many people have this condition (depending on the literature between 350-450 known cases).

2. Female Pseudo Hermaphrodites

A person born XX with normal female internal organs but with "masculanized" genitalia. They can appear more male then female or a combination of each.

Causes

The most common is Congenital Adrenal Hyperplasia (CAH) it occurs approximately 1:14,000 births. This is when the adrenal glands overproduce testosterone. It also has been recorded that some persons with this disorder had been exposed to progesterone-like drugs before they were born.

3. Male Pseudo Hermaphrodites

A person born XY with testes (usually in the abdominal cavity). The external genitalia are usually female but can be ambiguous.

Causes

The most common cause is Androgen Insensitivity Syndrome (AIS). This is when the body doesn't respond to the androgen being produced. There are different variations:

SS FILE # 5

Complete (CAIS) , and Partial (PAIS). This condition has a variety of names and occurrence rates.

Hermaphrodites are also called intersexuals and thus the above three labels apply, but one source gave their definition of an intersexual: An intersexual is a person with genitalia of indeterminate sex, or which combine features of both sexes. Intersexuals include both "true hermaphrodites", those with equally male and female genitals, and "pseudo-hermaphrodites", those with genitals which are closer to one sex or the other, while combining features of both; but many dislike these terms as being overly medical. It is estimated [1] that perhaps 1.7 percent of live births are actually intersexual (wikipedia.com).

Hermaphrodites can further be broken down as follows:

Sequential hermaphrodite: The organism is born as one sex and later changes into the other sex.

Protandry: When the organism starts as a male, and changes sex to a female later in life. Example: The seabasses (Family Serranidae). These are a highly sought food fish complex made up of primarily groupers. Since even a small male can produce more than enough sperm to fertilize a huge number of eggs, while a female's egg output increases greatly with an increase in size, this strategy makes sense for an organism (fishes in general) where over 99% of the eggs laid will not result in a fish that reaches sexual maturity. It has been shown that fishing pressure actually is causing a change in when the switch from male to female occurs, since fishermen naturally prefer to catch the larger fishes. The populations are generally changing sex at a smaller size, due to natural selection.

Protogyny: When the organism starts as a female, and changes sex to a male later in life. Example: Wrasses (Family Labridae) are reef fishes that tend to have three distinct sexual types. Small females, immature males and supermales. The small females and the immature males have identical colorations. The supermale is usually brightly colored, and there is only one in a given area of the reef. This supermale dominates the other wrasses of the species, having the choice of females to mate with. When the supermale dies, the largest wrasse in the area, male or female, becomes the new supermale.

Simultaneous hermaphrodite: The organism has both male and female sexual organs at the same time as an adult. Usually, self-fertilization does not occur. Also called synchronous hermaphrodites.' Examples: Earthworms. Hamlets (Family Haemulidae) are a type of fish that are curious for many reasons, including that they seem to be evolving into different species quite rapidly. Unlike other fishes, hamlets seem quite at ease mating in front of divers, allowing observations in the wild to occur readily. They do not practice self fertilization, but when they find a mate, the pair takes turns between which one acts as the male, and which acts as the female, through multiple matings, usually over several nights (wikipedia.com).

Three Articles on Hermaphrodites

1. Hermaphrodites in Animals

Atrazine, a top selling weed killer in the United States and the world, has been found to dramatically affect the sexual development of male frogs, turning them into hermaphrodites - creatures with both male and female organs- at concentrations 30 times lower than those deemed safe by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"What struck us as unbelievable was that atrazine could cause such dramatic effects at such low levels," says Tyrone Hayes, an associate professor of integrative biology at the University of California, Berkeley, who led the frog study.

"If you take five grains of salt, divide this weight by five thousand, that is the amount of atrazine that causes these abnormalities," added Hayes.

The EPA has set the limit for atrazine contamination for drinking water at 3 parts per billion (ppb). Hayes' and his colleagues found that concentrations of 0.1 ppb caused abnormalities.

The scientists exposed tadpoles of the African clawed frog, a popular research organism, to atrazine at concentrations as low as 0.1 ppb. When the tadpoles reached adulthood, Hayes found that between 16 and 20 percent had abnormal reproductive systems.

"Some had three ovaries and three testes, some had ovaries on one side and testes on the other, one animal even had six testes," says Hayes. The male voice box also shrunk, resembling the female version. And, when males were exposed to levels as high as 25 ppb of atrazine, the frogs showed a ten-fold decrease in testosterone levels.

Based on work done in other laboratories, Hayes' team suspects that atrazine feminizes the frogs by increasing production of an enzyme called aromatase, which converts testosterone to estrogen.

These results are published in the April 16 issue of Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

All kinds of stress induce plants to become hermaphrodites. These include irregular light cycle, water stress, and some chemicals. Hermaphroditism is also a genetic trait that indicates even without stress. --- Ed Rosenthal

2. First 'test tube hermaphrodite' reported

January 18, 1998

Web posted at: 10:59 a.m. EDT (1059 GMT)

ATLANTA (CNN) -- The odds of a human being naturally having both male and female sexual characteristics are slim, both in the general population and for so-called "test tube babies" conceived through 'in vitro fertilization'. In fact, in 20 years of 'in vitro fertilization', it has never happened -- until now.

In the latest issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, Scottish researchers reported the first known case of a hermaphrodite found in an 'in vitro fertilization'.

The researchers say couples using the process should be warned of this possible outcome, though it is unlikely to happen to them.

More than 100,000 babies have been born through IVF since Louise Brown, the world's first test tube baby, was born in 1978.

The hermaphrodite case, the only one of those thousands to develop this irregularity during conception, arose due to an error in the fertilization. During the IVF process, a male embryo, with an x and y chromosome, and a female embryo, with two x chromosomes, fused.

"In combination, the genetics or chromosomes were mixed to become one fetus," explained

SS FILE # 5

Dr. Dorothy Mitchell-Leef, a reproductive biology associate, who says the true hermaphrodite condition is found in nature "maybe one in every 25,000 deliveries."

The condition is not life-threatening. It can be surgically corrected.

3. Is hermaphrodite a proof of evolution?

From a webpage
Date unknown

Hermaphrodites do not have any new information, but in humans are the result of an abnormality in embryonic development. Human embryos are sexually dimorphic at first (i.e. contain characteristics of both sexes), because they all have basically the same genetic information, and this information is expressed as efficiently as possible as the embryo develops. This is design economy. For example, in all human embryos, at first both the müllerian duct system (female) and the wolffian duct system (male) develop, because both sexes have the genetic information for these structures. Incidentally, this refutes the urban myth that human embryos 'start off female'. The subsequent differences are the result of designed chemical signals that control the expression of the information. E.g., a gene set usually found on the Y chromosome controls the levels of testosterone and dihydroxytestosterone (DHT) secretion. Above a certain level, these hormones suppress the development of the müllerian duct system and promote the wolffian duct system, so the embryo takes on masculine characteristics. Below a certain hormone level, the opposite happens, and the embryo takes on female characteristics. But if for some reason the genetic information for one sex or the other is not switched off, then a hermaphrodite results. This hasn't the slightest thing to do with evolution from goo to you via the zoo.

In short, the hermaphroditic state arises because of a defect in development. Such defects happen in our fallen world. It does not involve any new genetic information, so it has nothing to do with Evolution. A lesson is: if readers are faced with a 'proof' of evolution, just ask whether any new genetic information arises, i.e. whether it really has anything to do with real molecules to man evolution, and how this 'proof' refutes the Biblical creation framework. -(Dr Jonathan Sarfati Research scientist, author and editorial consultant AiG [Australia])

Conclusion On Hermaphrodites

I find it kind of strange, with all the advance technologies that we possess, that we can't seem to find the cause of human hermaphrodites existence, generally. Only a few "suggestions" to the actual cause of human hermaphrodites was given. Yet in plants and other animals it is so easy. Plus, when it occurred in the test tube humans, we could account for it. I don't buy it.

They are two train of thought:

One, from the above statements from leading sources, a chemical imbalance had been found in the plant/animal cases. Therefore, it could be a chemical 'mis-up' in our environment, through fertilizers, processed food, etc; even tracing back to the dawn of man since we begun to progress. Progression usually has drawbacks too. Continue eating those microwave dinner and see if you don't develop some abnormalities. And it doesn't take much progression too; remember what Hayes said about the animals, "If you take five grains of salt, divide this weight by five thousand, that is the amount of atrazine that causes these abnormalities." Ed Rosenthal also said, "All kinds of stress induce plants to become hermaphrodites. These include irregular light cycle, water stress, and some chemicals." Therefore, many of these spin offs to progression could be the causing factor for human hermaphrodites as well, as seen in the plants and animals. And though the number of hermaphrodites reported are low, I believe they are many more who are afraid to let it be known.

Two, which is the side I'm more leaning to for present times, it could be a deliberate action to mock God, discredit his word, advocate homosexuality and help provide the ammunition for the new age (do what thou wilt.). I was speaking to someone in a cyber group on transgending, after she was cornered, she exclaimed, "what about hermaphrodites, God made mistake [haha, because that's not in his book - bible]." From this I could see the underline agenda, satanic conspiracy. Similar to the case in L.A., where an incurable STD's was deliberately injected into black males in Los Angeles; which Bill Clinton, president at the time, openly apologized for. No one would have known it was deliberate if it wasn't exposed. They would have thought the 'good-for-nothing' black males are so promiscuous and irresponsible with their sexuality. Unless someone finds out that most hermaphrodites could be created by demonic invention, impossible to know, it will be blamed on nature, 'cause and effect' or nothing at all.

Do you know what they will be able to do because of the completion of the genetic mapping? You can literally have a custom made baby the natural way. Choose the color of the hair, skin, etc; and more other remarkable things. Imagine an Afro-American baby born with green or purple hair. We will see what is called in X-men, mutants, as scientists continue to play God.

Therefore, hermaphrodites could be results of our ever advancing chemical achievements and/or the deviant scientific minds that couldn't resist to experiment; be it human or spirit.

These abnormalities are not rare, scientist have being doing these things in secret for years. I could show you pictures of many abnormalities in the world and many are due to scientific involvement and the rest to demonic intervention; things you wouldn't begin to believe.

I could go on with this, but since the number of hermaphrodites are growing, and they're been notice, I think it wise not to uncover other truths. They are human beings too and my suggestion to any, is that you choose the sex that you are more incline to, have a corrective surgery to that end, then live your normal life. This decision can still be made even without correct surgery; plus the decision isn't that hard as it seems. If you have breasts or predominantly woman features, this is a clear choice for womanhood. The stances that God has on any human being are the same stance he has for hermaphrodites. Homosexuality is still homosexuality, transgending is still transgending, fornication is still fornication and sin is sin across the board; once you have the capacity to think and reason (intelligence). After you've made the decision to be a man or woman, continue in that path, though many change later for many reasons. For example, the choice to be a man was made for you at birth or as a child. Then at puberty you develop breasts.

But if this choice was made by you given all factors involved, then stick with it and don't plan to do anything God doesn't approve of. It's kind of a complex situation. But they're still humans and should still be born again. God loves them and he still cares for them and wants them to be save as well. Sex doesn't really matter in the new kingdom, for the scripture teaches us that in this new kingdom there is neither male nor female. Therefore, though you might be abnormal physically, your soul is not and it must be accounted for. God is more concern with your heart and that it be inclined to him. If you're a hermaphrodite, don't follow 'some' who go about being transvestites, posing for porn movies or any such thing. Don't use your situation to justify sinning. For instance, you choose to be a man by all factors involved, but later on you decide you want to sleep with a man and have anal sex. To support this you would use the 'herms card' to justify it, because you have a feminine side. No! That's sin and the consequences you will reap [the same can be said about cross dressing or unwed sexual activities]. If I felt like robbing the national bank, being that my father was an ardent thief, do I use genetics to justify 'wiping out' the national reserve? Saying, "I have a thieving genetic make up so it's okay, besides, I'm destitute and an ex-Vietnam soldier." No! I'll be punished by God and man.

If you're a hermaphrodite, God loves you, he wants you to be saved; and like any human being, if you're not saved, you shall inherit an unhappy eternity.

THE MYSTERY OF MARRIAGE AND SEX

SS # 6

"Great marriages are graced by an almost mystical bond of friendship, unbreakable commitment, and deep understanding that nearly defies explanation. A great marriage occurs when a man and a woman, being separate and distinct individuals, are fused into a single unit which the bible calls 'one flesh'" (Dr. J. D.). An absolute sound quote by Dr. James Dobson, so sound it is that by his confession, most don't even have a clue about the mystery of it. If one were to even get a glimpse at it, the divorce rate would be zero and sexual promiscuity non-existent. If Dr. Dobson could only confess that it defies explanation, how much for the rest of us who can't even come near his level of understanding? This is the intent of this Sexuality Series, fully unmasking the mystery of Marriage and sex. What you might hear you've probably never heard before and probably seem unbiblical and shocking. However, it's content is irrefutably true and very biblical.

Paul taught us, "For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. THIS IS A GREAT MYSTERY: but I [can't stop to explain it or go off on a tangent, I'm trying to] speak concerning Christ and the church" (Eph 5:31-32). Unfortunately Paul mentioned that the institution of Marriage was a great mystery and "fail" to explain this mystery to us. Extremely saddened that he didn't but fortunate to get bits of it from the Lord. Let's start with Christ's said narration of it as well, "For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh" (Matt 19:5-6).

The key here is "one flesh," if he said we were one in spirit that would be understandable, but he said two flesh become one. It means then that once you are joined to another person you and that person become one person, so to speak, indistinguishable before God and other wise. Join to another person doesn't necessarily means a marriage only, but as learnt in another Sexuality Series, number 2, marriage really occurs at consummation (sex) and hence sex is the joining of two individuals, as Paul confessed, "know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for two, saith he, shall be one flesh" (1 Cor 6:16). That is what solidifies the marriage after the ceremony. So strong is this union that if while you are married and "marry another [you] committe adultery; and whose marieth her which is put away doth committe adultery" (Matt 19:9).

Now impose this on the fact that casual sex is synonymous to marriage, it then means everyone you have sex with you are married to them and become one with them, not to mention in "adultery." An unbroken connection of "one-fleshness" with several people, especially when you don't know you are married to them and hence no "ritual" of divorcement or cutting off. Now, becoming one flesh with someone is literally being intertwined with that person yet "separate." The person's hand is your hand, their feet are yours, their mind is your mind and vice versa. We as humans haven't really tapped into this as yet - though you have occasions were one spouse feel the physical pain of another at the time it was inflicted, yet miles apart. I say we as humans haven't tapped into it as yet, but there is one called satan and he could be fully utilizing it: which, separate and apart from the moral breakdown and our nature, is the cause for the frequent elicit sex craze and its mandate in true satanic churches. Because if through sex a group of people can have an unnatural "one-fleshness" then it means they are not their own but belong to the individuals. If one individual, a fallen angel in flesh, in that group has the power to manipulate all others through the God institution of marriage (consummated sex), then he has a great power over a great many people, somewhat legally. That also could be the reason satanic concerts, mass and 'church' services have open frequent sex. In fact, in the real satanic churches there is a female at the altar in a sexual position where members can have sex with her during the service at will: And why satanists in concerts (Marilyn Mansion probably) give a command for open sex to the audience. All satan or any of his angels has to do is have sex with one person and that person has sex with another and so on, in the same way HIV Aids is spread. Through the "one-fleshness" institution put in place by God, he not only can easily control and manipulate your mind, it "legally" belongs to him, as a wife legally belongs to her husband, she is not her own (Rom 7:2, 1 Cor 7:4). This is how serious having casual sex can hamper you. Now that all in the group belongs to him legally, he can manipulate you from a distance. The only thing this comes close to is God in all of us saints, yet he is one. It might seem far fetch to you, but he's not as stupid as he is, especially when we have not a clue of the mystery of marriage and sex. Before Adam's fall we probably had the ability to communicate with our spouse telepathically. Imagine my wife in Mexico and me in Florida and she said in her mind to me, "Honey, I feel a pain in my side are you hurt?" I replied in my mind, "Yes, I fell on the handle of my jeep knapsack stroller, but I'm fine." This is the sort of oneness we probably had, yet have, but cannot tap into it after Adam's fall, probably only through the abominable witchcraft. However, satan and those like him, through their cunning could have mastered this for the past six thousand years of mankind, even further, on a mass scale level. Gives a new meaning to staying a virgin now, doesn't it, and also marrying a saved person?

It's not hard to understand if this verse is understood, "by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men" (Rom 5:12). So likewise, by one sexual relation all in that link are his and so passed upon all of them, like Aids. The only way to break from this link and never be joined to it is found in Roman 7:1-4, "Know ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth? For the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband. So then if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man. Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God." When you become born again (Acts 2:38) you, my brethren, also are become dead to the satanic marriage and his "one-fleshness" by the body of Christ; now divorced from satan, he being dead by your salvation and cannot be resurrected, you are free to marry again and marry Christ. You're now born again and cannot be unborn again (Heb 10:14), so you cannot be joined to him through sex with someone in his link again, he becomes dead by you being saved; and if your husband be dead you are free to marry again and marry God. Additionally, while in God we shouldn't and cannot sin by fornication or adultery (1 John 5:18, 1 John 3:6-10).

This "one-fleshness" is so real and spiritually cohesive that this fact is overlooked in Christendom, and for various reasons should continue being overlooked; heeding the verse that says, "speak thou the things which become sound doctrine" (Titus 2:1). This fact that is overlooked is, the saved wife, under ceremonial marriage before a godly minister and with consummation, can justify her unsaved husband; because they literally become one flesh, not just consummation but covenant before God. The scripture on it says, "And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him. For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else were your children unclean; but now are they holy" (1 Cor 7:13-14). To sanctify equals to justify which is synonymous to salvation, so the saved wife automatically makes the unsaved man save by the union. Shocking isn't it, don't quote me! You might say, why not the saved become unsaved by this union? Because the greater is overcome by the lesser, and one cannot be made unsaved (Heb 10:14). You might also say, what about joining to a harlot, as the bible says? It would follow mostly for those who are already unsaved and married, plus, not just consummated 'one-fleshness' but also ceremonial oat before God: And if a sane person marry a harlot he or she would have given up the faith or the harlot gave up the practice and repent, as we are commanded not to be unequally yoked. What about until death do us part and at that point every man for themselves? The death do us part spoke of the two being separated into a new after life of being like the angels (Luke 20:35-36), not a separation of you and Christ. It is for reasons like these and hundreds more I could think of why I opt not to teach it and advise others not to, it wasn't taught but subtly mentioned by Paul; whereby he simply concluded marriage as a "great mystery." Nevertheless, it's like the citizenship process of old, whereby once you marry a U.S. Citizen, you automatically become a U.S. Citizen or it's sure, as against being born (again) one. In this case, your citizenship of Christ and heaven would be sure, because you are one and the same before God with someone who is already a citizen. But don't ever quote me on this! Paul himself said, "to the rest speak I, not the Lord." He knew the oracles, as he also has written "apocryphal" books, but not all things are good to speak or commanded to. He himself said some things are "not lawful for a man to utter" (2 Cor 12:4).

BASIS OF LOVE, FRIENDSHIP AND COMPANIONSHIP

Yes, marriage prevents fornication (1 Cor 7:2). But before any marriage or relationship can be successful, it must have a solid basis of love. Any two person can become one, as previously seen and stated by Paul, but it takes love to fuel, maintain and ignite that oneness to the perfect union or marriage. Love is not lust or the false association we attribute to it via television and fad. "Love means the affirmation, not the possession of the one loved." It's unconditional and a commitment should be easy but involves decisions, and blossoms to the point that it cannot be lived without with the person you are in love with. This person supercedes all and becomes your best friend and chief life long companion - fused together with an unbroken trust. Unless this is achieved or clearly in sight, you're only marrying for on-demand sex. Though nothing is wrong with two persons agreeing and marrying for this reason, it defeats the purpose of the union and promises to cause many untold troubles, to the point you will regret that you ever married. To clearly see what I'm talking about, the bible book of love must be brought into play; taken from Songs of Solomon 8:7, "Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it: if a man would give all the substance of his house for love, it would utterly be contemned." In other words, once this love is achieved it cannot be broken and marital problems will be easily overcome with love and sometimes seems insignificant; whereby the scripture could have said, "for charity ["love"] shall cover the multitude of sins" (1 Peter 4:8). Real love is that all important cord in a marriage, simply because that person becomes an integral part of you; a functional makeup of your being that cannot be lived without, even if that person is found to be impotent, that person becomes your friend. And like the shullamite woman you can also conclude, "this is my beloved, and this is my friend...I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine" (Songs of Solomon 5:16,6:3). When this is achieved all things becomes secondary (looks, money, sex, performance, coherence, class, color, status, "being," etc) and that person becomes unconditionally livable; not just a booty call. You become attached within the soul and only there has any bearing. To simply demonstrate, I had a Teddy bear (monkey) called David. He slept with me, eat with me, we even had talks and make belief playing. We were so attached that I physically beat up my cousin over her treating him bad. Over time he got torn, worn out, patched up, leaking fillings and old. More Teddy bears were brought in, bigger ones, more colorful, newer, more exotic, but I only loved David. When I spread my bed, he lied on it only and other Teddies were put up. He was less attractive, old, eyes gone, mouth sown up, etc, but we were attached and everything else was futile. Imagine that was a lifeless Teddy bear, how much more the relationship we should have with our spouse. Only true love can spawn this attachment - memories are created and souls are tied, everything else becomes futile and insignificant - hence, a mutually long satisfying relationship can foster. When they grow old, the lips look sown, eyes fall out, acting different, smelling different, younger advancing ones come on the scene, finances gone hare wired and all hell breaks loose, you only want that person, you only love that person regardless of. This must be sparked for marriage, for it's not just sex, one might become sick and bed ridden and you have to clean them or change their underwear. Will you still find them attractive? Or, to a lesser extent, she might have a vaginal infection and it's your pleasure to remind and apply the medicate cream for her. Or wash her underwear, or shave her leg, chew her food, dress her breast wound or even bath her when she's tired with no intension for sex. You become attached. We call the monkeys and apes uncivilized, but some of the mating qualities they have (picking tics, grooming, etc) makes us look uncivilized. So this love and attachment fosters the very reason another sex was created, "And the LORD God said, it is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him" (Gen 2:18). And though one, "husbands and wives, celebrate your uniqueness and learn to compromise when male and female individuality collide" (Dr. J. D.).

BETROTHAL AND ESPOUSALS

One scripture noted, "what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? Let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her" (Due 20:7).

There's nothing wrong with betrothing a wife, either by yourself or parents. It's not practiced that often today, except in Islam. Normally a parent would espouse a child to marry another within a different family when they grow up, with even compensation involved. In a loose sense, we kind of still do that under the notion of having a fiancé. Nothing is wrong with this, but the scripture in play give a good reason for a reservation in doing so, that is betrothals or long fiancé relationships. In one case, upon adulthood you might find that you don't like the person betrothed to or even fall in love with someone else. Though the benefits of marrying into that family might be great, you will be at a disadvantage because you're not attached, in love, with that person as seen in the previous section. Personally, I would rather live with someone I love than please my parent or maintain a status quo. In another case, you may have a long time fiancé, even a long distant relationship, and might grow apart rather than jell together while the "right person" was excluded during that period and moved on. Even worse, long fiancé relationships are not encourage because it will most often lead to promiscuity, unwed sex and other complications. Also, with parent betrothal comes high expectations that aren't met, example, virginity. In the time that Mary was espoused to Joseph (Matt 1:19) and found pregnant, she would have been put to death; such disdain is still carried on today, with some justification.

VIRGINITY

The greatest gift a person can give to another on their wedding night is a clean slate - a virgin bride or groom. "Mutual purity gives special meaning to sex in marriage. No other human being has invaded the secret world the two of you share, because you have reserved yourself exclusively for one another's pleasure and love" (Dr. J. D.). So desirable is it that some women have begun to do a hymen reconstruction surgery. Joanie Cox states, "the procedure - which repairs the hymenal ring at the opening of a woman's vagina usually broken during intercourse - leaves no visible scar and can be performed on women who have had intercourse only once. According to a recent report by Latina Magazine, the surgery has been performed thousands of times in Argentina, Ecuador and the Dominican Republic. And more and more women from Muslim countries such as Iraq, Iran and Egypt are coming to the United States, and especially to South Florida, for a hymenoplasty...On average, the surgery costs between $2,900 and $3,600." (City Link, "Like a virgin," picked up in 2004). The hymen is reconstructed because on first penetration of a woman's vagina, the hymen breaks and bleeding occurs during sex. In older time, a white sheet was brought into the bedroom on the wedding day and the blood stained sheet was shown to the parents that the bride was indeed a virgin. However, though the hymen can be reconstructed, what is really pierced is the soul, tied to another, as previously discussed; which can only be reconstructed by God. Today, virginity is worth more than gold and extremely precious; on the same lines that constitute "Demand and Supply," as in, it is very rare. Though it is the right, godly, healthy, wise and best thing to do. Those who have had themselves pierced through, even several times, by many, risk obtaining that perfect marriage. Because the Devil is a liar and don't want you truly happy, he tells you the opposite to ruin your life completely; that is, sleep around then settle down, even worse, settle down with someone who has a clean slate; unfair to them. Flee this dangerous nightlife mentality and you might save your future marriage, health, psychological makeup, and your very life. Abstinence is the absolute very best. "Virginity before marriage is the best foundation. That's the way the system was designed by the creator and no one has yet devised a way to improve on his plan...Enter the marriage bed as a virgin. If it's too late to preserve your virginity, initiate a policy of abstinence today, and don't waver from it until you are wed" (Dr. J. D.).

ROLE OF HUSBAND

Traditionally, from the secular world, the role of the husband to his wife has been one of a log, non-participant, receiver and not giver, and in everything except the literal sense, a consumer rather than a producer. This has been overtly reaffirmed in the comical media of shows like, "The Simpsons," "Love and Marriage" with Al Bundy, "Family Guy," ironically, "Everybody loves Raymond" and many others. It would seem the husband has no roles and the women are their maids. Though wives should be in submission and serve her husband, they too have roles and should serve their wives. She has needs and feelings too and not to be stimulated or programmed at will for on-demand pleasure or service. Marriage is a mutual relationship of each giving, regardless of who has the God given authority over who. We ourselves have a relationship with God, yet the relationship is mutual - we give to him and he gives to us, and this example makes it even clearer that the one with the authority gives more, as Christ gives to us more than we can give to him. Not here to debate the authority issue in this section, for that is solidified in Gen 3:16, 1 Cor 11:3 and Eph 5:23; but I'm here rather to prompt men to love their wives as Christ loves the church, with works, actions, non-sexual stimulation and pro-active affection. The bible also breaks this down for us in the following verses:

1) Commanded to Respect her: "Likewise, ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; that your prayers be not hindered" (1 Pet 3:7). In other words, she's not just your sex toy or meal preparer, she too is a Joint-heir with Christ and should be honored and respected; to the point that Peter says withholding such can hinder your prayers.

2) Commanded to love their wives: "Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it;

That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself. For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church" (Eph 5:25-29). Here it clearly mandates that husbands are not to take advantage of their wives - treat them as a third party once a week pleasure filler, beat them, emotionally scare them or treat them as children - but love them. But it didn't stop there, they are to be love and treated as you would love and treat your own self. Not only pointing to the "one-fleshness", but the fact that you love yourself so much that you take care of it to the utmost and should apply that to your wife. You don't beat yourself, deny it certain privileges, ostracize it or treat it like an infant, so why should you do that to your wife? Love her and like how you nourish your body and it shines and make you proud, so she'll shine and make you proud in more ways than one! To really get a synopsis of what love is read Sexuality Series number 2. Also, romancing her is utterly valuable. "For a man, romantic experiences with his wife are warm and memorable - but not necessary. For a woman, they are her lifeblood. A woman's confidence, her sexual response, and her zeal for living are often directly related to those tender moments when she feels deeply loved and appreciated by her man. That is why flowers and candy and cards are more meaningful to her than to him. The way a woman feels about her husband sexually is a by-product of their romantic relationship at the time. If a woman feels close to her husband, loved by him, protected by him, then she is more likely to desire him physically" (Dr. J. D.).

3) Command to Cheer up wife: "When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken" (Deut 24:5). He is not to be detached from the feelings of his wife. If she is sad, he should be sad and cheer her up. If she has sexual needs, he should seek to fulfill that and not only when he has those needs. Deuteronomy took it further by saying the man is not even to go to war, even if drafted, if he just got married, but to pleasure or fulfill the needs of his wife. In other words, she's not some unemotional "being" but has feelings and needs too and if you two are one, and that is so, then her feelings, needs and concerns are yours too. Your hand can't be cut and feel pain and you don't know or ignore it, seeing it is apart of your body. An example of being concern of your wife's needs is seen in 1 Sam 1:8, "Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved?" He was so concerned that he watched her praying and stayed with her through the moment until verse 18 said, "So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad."

THE MYSTERY OF MARRIAGE AND SEX

4) Command to always be in love with her: "Let her be as the loving hind and pleasant roe; let her breasts satisfy thee at all times; and be thou ravished always with her love" (Prov 5:19). Some men are married to their women physically but their mind is on someone else's breast or body. Your mind has to be in the relationship for the life of the relationship, as when you first fell in love. You can't have your mind on someone else and it not manifest or causes problems. Yes, there is the emotionally damaging experience of calling someone else's name during sex, but not only sex is detached but everything else also is. The relationship becomes detached and hence it is no relationship, but two people sharing a house. In this sex driven society that is difficult, but if you first are in love with the person you marry and become attached to her, then no matter what else is seen she'll always remain beautiful to you. Yes there is marriage for those who are burning (1 Cor 7:8-9), but you forfeit a lot and even put marriage in jeopardy by not waiting, asking God and applying discipline.

5) Talk with your wife on matters of decisions: In Genesis 31:4-16 Jacob got a command from God to do something and has all the right to follow God's command without consulting his wife. But in respecting her, he explained the entire ordeal before acting, to which Rachael wisely answered, "whatsoever God hath said unto thee do."

6) Commanded to be a provider: "But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel" (1 Tim 5:8). This is inherently known and overtly vital as the scripture makes plain and if not done hampers the other areas and somewhat make them non-effective. By Genesis 3:16, it is a built-in desire of "women" to be attractive to a man that can provide for them or in that capacity even if she makes money as well.

7) Commanded to protect her: "Take heed to your spirit, and let none deal treacherously against the wife of his youth" (Mal 2:15); for both others and himself. This is not only inherently known but also inherent in a husband to protect his wife. However, be careful of becoming over-protective.

These are simply roles that are expected to be upheld by any husband to his wife, which shall produce a long, meaningful and fruitful relationship. In addition, they are roles to his children which we shall not discuss but are inherently known and often not practiced - provision, care, listening ear, training them up godly, loving them, spending time with them, being involved and others.

ROLE OF WIFE

Most of the roles of women to their husband is generally known, but overtly need to be reaffirmed because such values are purposely being overridden; entrenched in feminism, new ageism and much "liberal" filth placarded in the media; especially saddened by the deceptive "preaching" of the show "Desperate House Wives." And, unfortunately, some of this has been caused by husbands who violate their roles commanded above; which should never be an excuse for women to violate theirs. The bible also breaks down these roles for us in the following verses:

1) Commanded to be subject to their Husband: "Likewise, ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, they also may without the word be won by the conversation of the wives" (1 Peter 3:1). That is a clear command. Women are to be subject to their husbands, even further, I might add, as we are subjected to Christ. Why? Because, "the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church...therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in everything...and the wife see that she reverence her husband" (Eph 5:23,24 and 33). That's all the bible and its truth, it can't get any plainer or simpler than that, thoroughly self-explanatory. And if in reverence and subjection/submission to their husbands they ought to be in obedience to them, as it also follows that we are to be in obedience to God. Genesis 3:16 gave a good expository on this. It related the same thing, "thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee." So this mandate has been in effect from the first man and woman. This was directly effected on Eve after she made Adam and Humanity sin. God does things in order, he dealt with the inherent head about not eating the fruit, Adam. Adam in fear probably wouldn't have eat the fruit, so the Devil tried Eve. So after this Act, women are to consult in obedience to their husband before doing anything. If this was in effect by natural instinct and law before the snake event, probably Eve would have spoken to Adam before eating the fruit. Giving Adam that reverence and he being led by God would have said no. So to stop problems and keep out disharmony, women are not only to consult with their husbands but obey them on their decisions even if it is not with theirs, as husbands are the spiritual head of wives; and in a good case, would lead from his head, Christ. You can only disobey to obey God, for instance, he telling you to kill a genuine saint or even to commit adultery. So then, women are to be "obedient to their own husbands" (Titus 2:5).

2) To learn from their husbands: "And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church" (1 Cor 14:35). This would seem a duty of husbands to their wives, but some wives are "unteachable" and refuse to learn from their saved husbands; even citing that only their pastor should give them directives. But Paul overrides this and taught us that women are to learn from their husbands and even ask to be taught. One of the first steps of love is understanding and "your husband is no more equipped to resolve your entire package of emotional needs than you are to become his sexual dream machine every twenty-four hours. Both partners have to settle for human foible and faults and irritability and occasional nighttime headaches" (Dr. J. D.).

3) Command to be Femininely pious: "Women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things...To be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good" (Titus 2:3-5). "Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things" (1 Tim 3:11). The first verse applies to all women and wives and the second was addressing ministers' wives, but applicable to all. These basically sums up being a virtuous woman that translate into a virtuous wife, a woman who is wise and hence carry herself wisely. Such women are gifts from God, "House and riches are the inheritance of fathers: and a prudent wife is from the LORD" (Prov 19:14, 18:22). Such a woman is humble, dresses modestly, ambitious, quiet, not a tale bearer, not a gossip, not a busy body, not raucous or vulgar, manages the home, grow up the child godly and complimentary to her husband; as the scripture says, "A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband: but she that maketh ashamed is as rottenness in his bones" (Prov 12:4). A good outline of such a virtuous woman can be found in Proverbs 31, "women" please read it.

ROLE OF SEX IN MARRIAGE

The obvious role of sex in marriage is reproduction, but of course everyone would say no because of the sex craze and some couples don't even want kids. However, the need to have sex (Rom 8:20) was put in us by God so we wouldn't be snobbish and not reproduce - "I don't have to have sex with you." If this subjection was not in us the earth would hardly reproduce since Adam, if any, holding all things constant. If we weren't subjected to become hungry we wouldn't eat, as some sick people had to be force-fed or they die refusing to eat, sometimes because of worry. So God was the one who made us have this desire to have sex, so much so it is burning, obviously for the sake of reproduction. It would have to feel good and satisfying for that inherent desire to work: Like how the food has to be sumptuous or satisfying for us to eat it; not to mention that when you are extremely hungry all foods are sumptuous to you, be careful, for unlike food that you eat and pass out, a sexual partner is for life. So God can account for what he placed in us and quickly give mercy. Though mercy is given, he cannot account for homosexuality, for he didn't make man that way and it is contrary to nature (Rom 1:26-27). Just to go off tangent, if it is contrary to nature, how did it come about? Obviously that natural subjection was channeled by an intelligent force into an artificial outlet (homosexuality, bestiality, etc). That intelligent force are devils, first recorded in Gen 6:4 leading to Sodom and Gomorrah, when they first decided to intermingle amongst men as humans. It since became a fad and quickly acceptable by the "evil," though unnatural, ungodly and should cease.

However, given the subjection to it, sex, it then has a place in marriage and serves as a unifying bond between a man and his wife; plus a constant fuse between them. It sparks intimacy and given today, keep the marriage alive, to the point that without it the marriage can fall apart. No wonder the bible cautioned us, "Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinency" (1 Cor 7:5).

As to the etiquettes of it, read Sexuality Series number 3, which to a married couple, is summed up in this verse, "Marriage is honorable in all, and the bed undefiled" (Heb 13:4). Meaning you can get as "nasty" and "freaky" as you wish, in marriage sex is undefiled. However, read Sexuality Series number 3 for guidelines.

They are many things to spice up the bed room, your creativity is your only limitation, it satisfies your sexual needs and brings fun to each other; especially in bodily exploration through baths, sensuous massages, oral mapping and other non-intercourse elements we affectionately call fore-play and after-play. Be explorative, creative, imaginative and have fun.

THE MYSTERY OF MARRIAGE AND SEX

SS FILE # 6

"It boils down to this: Women often give sex to get intimacy and men give intimacy to get sex" (Dr. J. D.).

And lastly, be sensitive to your partner's needs, he or she might not want to have sex now, probably just need to be held.

REPRODUCTION

This might seem like a simple topic, but too much or too soon can adversely affect a marriage. Though married, the couple might not be mature for kids or jelled enough yet. Wait a year before kids, for self-exploration. How can you wait if you're having sex? Contraceptives might be an answer, but some contraceptives are abortive methods, and of course such should be avoided. The next is early withdrawal but that is not thoroughly successful. Condoms in marriage might work, but not desirable. The best thing is to pray about it and believe. The point is, unplanned pregnancy can adversely affect the marriage and child, but can be overcome. If you're married, you know you will have sex, so from the start be prepared, always expecting a child, so if one does come you can handle it. Abortion is not an option! However, there are several ways to prepare physically, financially, spiritually, psychologically and emotionally, so that you will always be ready if you get pregnant on the wedding night or 20 years down the line. If prepared, all your sexual engagements will be considered planned sex, as against unplanned sex. All this you should be pondering before a marriage and not just jump into it; as you can see, it is a big responsibility.

CHILDREN AND ABORTION

"Lo, children are an heritage of the LORD: and the fruit of the womb is his reward" (Psalms 127:3). They are a blessing from the Lord, but today, at least one parent has to be born again,

"else where your children unclean, but now are they holy" (1 Cor 7:14). Children are cute, "void filling," wonderful and great to have, but they are a responsibility. Your utmost responsibility is to "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Prov 22:6). This means church attendance, piety, honesty, respect for all elders, love, home bible study, temperance, meekness, kept from ungodly living, kept from ungodly influence and trained to know the good and evil from the bible, and to choose the good; ultimately, to be saved themselves. You yourself must have a fear of God and mirror this piety Hannah expressed, "she vowed a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life" (1 Sam 1:11). In other words, give the child back to God. This doesn't mean give him or her to a monastery, but to the ways of God and to hear from him. Such a child will bring you joy, happiness, fulfillment and blessings, "A wise son maketh a glad father...The father of the righteous shall greatly rejoice: and he that begetteth a wise child shall have joy of him. Thy father and thy mother shall be glad, and she that bare thee shall rejoice" (Prov 10:1, Prov 23:24-25). Following biblical outlines with the heart of Hannah, you should then have a great parent child relationship with much joy and happiness; and hence no other directive is needed, regardless of the many books on raising kids, which most often eject the most vital ingredients - God. Next we go to something that needs teaching on, abortion, from a 2005 class presentation of mine.

"Abortion is a way to end pregnancy. Sometimes, an embryo or fetus stops developing and the body expels it. This is called spontaneous abortion or 'miscarriage'. A woman can also choose to end a pregnancy. This is called induced abortion. There are three ways it can be done - with medicine, vacuum aspiration, or surgery." The chances are high that a woman will have more than one unplanned pregnancy in the course of her lifetime. Nearly half of all U.S. women will have an abortion by the time they are 45 years old. More than six million women in the U.S. become pregnant every year. Half of those pregnancies are unintended. And 1.31 million end in abortion." They are many reason someone chooses abortion, but not one single solitary one justify this murderous act.

If you boil it down to the "nitty-gritty" it becomes obvious that Abortion is murder, because murder can only take place on something that is alive: As in termination of life. If you took a cord and tied it around my childhood teddy bear, hung him and said you killed it, you haven't killed it because it was never alive. Now, can the same be said of the abortions done? Was the fetus or baby removed a lifeless teddy bear that no life was terminated for it to take place. If so, then abortion is okay, for you would be removing unwanted filth from the body, much like how you dodo. But it is not so, for life was present, growing and if not terminated would become a full grown adult someday. Hence, if life begun and it was purposely ended, then the act of murder was carried out on another human being. I used some strong terms, like "Alive." Can the baby in womb be considered alive? One definition states, "Alive means that this being is growing, developing, maturing, and replacing its own dying cells. It means not being dead" (abortionfacts.com). This is certainly true of any fetus and we need not go into any other definitions, as in "Person" or "Human." For being alive, constitute being a person and a human, for the fetus is not a dog fetus in a human mother, God forbid, it's a human; and if it's not a person, what is it, a tadpole?

To make this argument even more valuable, is an excerpt from The Divine, "Before I formed thee in the belly I knew thee; and before thou camest forth out of the womb I sanctified thee, and I ordained thee a prophet unto the nations" (Jer 1:5). So it's obvious that a termination of life in the belly of a woman is not a light thing, for that person's life meant something to God and could very well be planned for great things. Another example is also found in the bible, this time not of a prophet but an irreligious secular King of Babylon, Cyrus. It reads, "That saith of Cyrus, He is my shepherd, and shall perform all my pleasure: even saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built; and to the temple, Thy foundation shall be laid" (Isa 44:28). This was clear word from God of a man who would set the Israelites free to return to Jerusalem and re-build their temple. But notice how accurate things are planned and how things really are, hundreds of years (701 B.C) before this actually happened (538 B.C) the man's actual name was given. Nothing, not even science, can get more accurate than that. The actual name of the man, Cyrus, was given before he was born; and also what he would do. According to Easton Bible dictionary, he "was a conqueror of Babylon, and issued the decree of liberation to the Jews (Ezr 1:1-2). Cyrus was a great military leader, bent on universal conquest. Babylon fell before his army on the night of Belshazzar's feast (Dan 5:30), and then the ancient dominion of Assyria was also added to his empire." Think what would happen if he was aborted, Israel wouldn't have gone free and the second temple built. So, both the so-called 'good' and 'bad' are orchestrated to be born by God and each man's destiny begins before the womb, but his life begins there and can be terminated there. To terminate his life from the womb under "choice," is to terminate his purpose, which is simply apart of a greater purpose. These bloody doctors are playing God at the authorization of our legislature. Will God be silent on the matter? Ironically, as you have been doing, you be the judge.

Everyone knows King Solomon, the wisest man that ever lived, he wasn't the direct product of rape but the relations from which he came has a similar disdain to it. His mother (Bathsheba) being forced into by David, while her husband was sent to be killed by David. The child of that incident died, but that same stigma could also be attached to Solomon, the next child David and Bathsheba had. But regardless of the negativity surrounding Solomon, God loved him and he prospered as one of the wisest, richest and mightiest kings ever. David could have terminated his relationship with Bathsheba or Solomon's life after all this and we wouldn't have what we have today from Solomon. Hence, rape and Incest is not an excuse, adoption is a viable option.

The bible gave the remedy, Abstinence! Don't have unplanned sex, don't have unplanned pregnancies. And the only planned sex you can have is between two consenting adults of the opposite sex who are married; the rarity and exception is rape. Even with the latter case, no funding should be provided by the government for murder. Adoption is a viable option and made extra-ordinarily easy by the local agencies and also by the vast number of stable traditional couples, who can't have children, that want a new born to adopt. You might ask, "How can a girl give up her own baby for adoption and go through life never knowing what is happening to her child?" Which is better to remember, "I gave my baby life. And because I loved him, I gave him into the arms of a loving couple" - or to remember, "I selfishly ended my baby's life?" If you as a person begin to think about abortion, you are premeditating murder and should desist such thoughts, for you would not only be killing another human life, you'd be killing your self - "But the murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death" (Rev 21:8).

POLYGAMY

The term simply means having more than one wife, practice among Mormons and muslims. It would seem a harmless practice if it can be afforded by the man; and some use the Old Testament of the Bible to justify it. However, those verses are not rightly divided in light of the New Testament. If that was done you would come to the correct conclusion that polygamy is wrong, "unbiblical" and should be abandon as a vial and legal practice. Yes, the Old Testament had prominent figures that had many wives, but it also has prominent figures that murdered, committed adultery and other evils. Are we to practice those too? No, the word has to be rightly divided. Let us start with this verse, "And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent" (Acts 17:30). Meaning, there was a dispensation that though wrong, God tolerated certain sins we did "because we didn't know better." But now commands that we turn (repent) from this and follow the right way, for salvation have come, that is, the entire world. At one time it was okay for a man to marry his sister but when Jewry came, this became wrong (Lev 18). What we should decipher is not the frequency or any other data of biblical polygamy, but whether God warrants it or what is his outline on it. Christ taught us, "Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, And said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh" (Matt 19:4-6). So from the beginning God's institution of Marriage was one man to one woman. And God is not imperfect in his ways or changeable in his perfection, so as it was in the beginning so it will always be and the absolute best way.

This alone constitute polygamy being wrong, for it violates God's design, and his ways; and if you love him, you'll follow his ways. That alone should make one give up the thought - pleasing God and following the best design for our lives. Other biblical reasons would fall under adultery and other sins, though some can be argued. But they are also psychological complications as well that space wouldn't allow to tell; some I've seen on a television program that was exposing it. For instance, one of the women who got out of this sect and marriage lamented her psychological trauma and horror she went through silently, as she tried to cope with sharing her husband. Reason being, it was not God's design. God's design is one man one woman and that brings the joy and happiness it should - you are his and he is yours - one flesh. And even though one might be able to afford many wives financially, "one woman is enough for one man," as Bishop Thomas told us at Slipe Rd. We were simply design that way and can cope with as much as what one spouse can give off, if the relationship is mutually gratifying. These and other biblical and logical reasons make polygamy wrong and discouraged.

ADULTERY

Adultery is having extramarital affairs. That is, being married yet having sexual relations with someone other than your spouse. This is inherently known to be deadly wrong. One, it can and will shatter a relationship to the point of murder. Two, it is eternally and spiritually wrong, a sin that will send you burning in the lake of fire forever. We are taught, "Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge" (Heb 13:4) and "therefore take heed to your spirit...for the LORD, the God of Israel, saith that he hateth putting away" (Mal 2:15-16). Rev 21:8 makes it even plainer by saying, "the abominable...shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death." So avoid this stupid sin. Begin by fleeing all appearances of evil - uncomfortable situations, sexy dressing, flirting, etc. It's just not worth it! Also, this is the reason we should "make the final choice of a marital partner very carefully and prayerfully...never impulsively or recklessly. You are playing for keeps now" (Dr. J. D.).

DIVORCE AND REMARRIAGE

The other day in 2005 I saw this reality T.V show with Pop Princess Britney Spears, now Federline. She said something on this show that in former times, as a God-fearing person, would get me very angry. She said, "I had sex three times today." I felt puzzled, why am I not very angry at this hedonism [yet I have weak inclinations], only slightly perturbed? Because what she said wasn't wrong or dirty, but absolutely correct. She had sex three times, but it was with her husband. Nothing wrong with that, she can have sex a million times, different ways, as wild as she pleases, it is with her husband. That is the only time sex is correct. Sex is good but bad outside of marriage. Other entertainers need to do that, get married and have sex as often as they please and stop fornicating with Tom, Dick, Harry, Mary, Jane and Sue; and sometimes with all of the above at the same time. And even worse, preaching this lifestyle in their songs, shows, movies, etc. The sad part and even worse, is that many totally disrespect God and the institution of Marriage with their stupid multiple divorces, especially with no remorse; Britney herself was previously married. They have helped this divorce decay in America greatly. Just pick up a copy of People Magazine and you'll be saddened. This ought not be so and is terribly wrong. It has even plagued our church and all aspects of society and by it judgment comes, for "sin is a reproach to any people" (Prov 14:34). Hence, the truth of it must be taught, preached against and upheld. Not only to the unsaved but also to the church, because some-time ago, before writing this Sexuality Series [only parts of the first section], I received an email from a friend who said quite plain, "[church name]...fly the gate!" He was referring to an announcement that a Bishop gave concerning remarriage; it was now okay to do so after years of its ban. He noted also that many were so outraged that they walked out. I promised him and others that I would do my research and give my two cents on the matter seeing I'm about to go that route. So here is the irrefutable truth.

We are correctly and sternly taught, "And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband: But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife" (1 Cor 7:10-11). It can't get any clearer than that! Why can't we obey God and escape judgment (Rev 21:8)? What is the matter with us? Why can't we see that this little pleasure is not worth it? Why can't we see that we are too carnal and not centered on the greater spiritual pursuit? It even cautioned us that if your marital problems are that great, separate for a while and in separation this proverb will take place and you'll be rejoined, "absence make the heart grow fonder." Avoid divorce at all cost. Nothing should be allowed to break your marriage.

Another cause of concern to the new convert in a church is this, that is, should they divorce their spouse because they are now saved and the other is "not?" Fortunately, besides the point mentioned in the first section of this sexuality series, Paul also admonishes us about this on our level, and discourage such basis for divorce by saying, "But to the rest speak I, not the Lord: If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away. For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else were your children unclean; but now are they holy. For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband? or how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife" (1 Cor 7:12,14,16)?

Some might say divorce is biblical, citing the Old Testament book of Deuteronomy 24:1-2 and even warrant it with excuses. Moses said, "When a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house. And when she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife" (Deu 24:1-2). However, Christ says unto us, "Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery" (Matt 19:8-9). Which makes it plain that God hates divorce, wants it to stop; those who do will be punished and it's better to abstain and wait than marry and divorce. He earlier said, "But I say unto you, That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery" (Matt 5:32). Again reiterating the "damnable" and "woeful" of divorce, but still give place to re-marriage because of the evil stubbornness of our hearts, allowing it only if your spouse committed adultery. Even worse, if you marry a divorce person, except for this cause, you and that new person is committing adultery and are on your way to a red hot hell's fire. It's best to ask a divorced person if their previous marriage was annulled because their partner was unfaithful than to quickly marry a divorced person; as seen, if this was not the cause of the annulment then you marrying that person will be committing adultery with them. The only exception is if her husband died, "The wife [or husband] is bound by the law as long as her husband [or his wife] liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord" (1 Cor 7:39).

So re-marriage is permissible only if your spouse died or the marriage is annulled because of a proven case of infidelity. It might also be encouraged because one was joined to another and in frequent sexual relations, whereby the absence of such might create a vacuum to which the Devil might constantly use for temptation to sexual sin; over and above the average temptations. Also, because, "idle hands are a tool for the Devil." So remarriage is permissible on these grounds, but the often course that leads to it should be avoided, is damned and leads to death eternal, that is, divorce.

I'll end this section by astutely quoting Dr. Dobson on the matter. One, "Divorce brings such loneliness to children that its pain is difficult to describe or even contemplate...time does not heal their wounds." So another selfish thing adults do and thoroughly need to consider before divorcing or even marriage, and stick in the marriage because of it, is the children. Consider greatly before marriage and abstain and wait before marriage and divorce, because your reckless attitude can adversely affect this generation and breed many emotionally unbalanced and delinquent kids in our already turmoil society. Do it for them even! One source noted, "'More than a third of American Children experience their parents' divorce before reaching 18,' reports Journal of Instructional Psychology. 'In general,' says the Journal, 'children who have recently experienced a family dissolution have a more difficult time with academic and social expectations at school than children from intact families or established single-parent or blended families...Additionally, parental divorce often affects the child's sense of emotional well being and self-esteem" (Awake, handed to me 2005). Two, "I would not minimize the distressing 'soul-hunger' that women so frequently describe, but I say this: Divorce is not the answer to it!" Three, "Divorce merely substitutes a new set of miseries for the ones left behind." And fourth and last quote from Mr. Dobson, "set your jaw and clench your fists. Nothing short of death must ever be permitted to come between the two of you. Nothing!"

Oh, one more for the celebrities, "The trouble with some women is that they get all excited about nothing - and then marry him" (Cher, BCC Observer Feb 2005). Kind of very true, no substance behind the marriage, pure infatuation, so it ends in divorce; especially if you're a celebrity and think everyone is falling heads or hell for you, then when that infatuation is ended you get divorce and marry the next "infatuee" - by the way, there's a judgment for that, it's called HELL'S FIRE!

WIDOWHOOD

A widow (female) or widower (male) is someone who has a marital spouse that died; and now they are single again. Paul gives us a blunt thesis to those in widowhood, "I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I [unmarried]" (1 Cor 7:8). He said this because 'time is short,' and we should really be overtly concerned with winning souls and ministering to the body, rather than thinking about the flesh; as he was. However, he also knew that many weren't as "strong" as he is so in the very next verse he said, "But if they cannot contain, let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn" (1 Cor 7:8). He went further to say in 1 Tim 5:9-14 &16, "Let not a widow be taken into the number under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man, Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work. But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry; Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith. And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not. I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully....If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed." He made sure to emphasize not to put them on the widow board or esteem them as widow under 60 years old, because satan will tempt above average and we should strive never to give place to the enemy; so let them re-marry, as stated in the above section. This is basically the rap on persons who have a decessed marital spouse.

CONCLUSION

The blunt conclusion of the whole matter is this, if you're young, single and burning it is absolutely okay to get married as stated by Paul in 1 Corinthians 7:9: Especially if you are tempted to act upon that burning after much distress and hence, for sex outside of marriage you'll really be burning in hell's fire - Heb 13:4. However, rather than rash reaction to burning, then get married, wait a while and employ the procedure taught in the Sexuality Series number 2.

Nevertheless, the best thing you can do is give up marriage for the sake of Christ. Whereby Christ could have said, "And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life"(Matt 19:29 & Luke 14:26). This is the utmost sacrifice and thoroughly encouraged. However, not all can attain to it as Christ himself also said, "But he said unto them, All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given. For there are some eunuchs [those who take the oat of celibacy - no sex for life], which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it" (Matt 19:11-12). Nevertheless, there is a wisdom in being like Paul, even for widows, I would love God to open your eyes to see. Don't get me wrong, "lifelong love is within your grasp. It is achievable, even in this selfish, materialistic era." But what I'm trying to say Paul said in 1 Cor 7:37-40, "Nevertheless he that standeth stedfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doeth well. So then he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better. The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord. But she is happier if she so abide, after my judgment: and I think also that I have the Spirit of God."

What we really need to be is less carnal, though difficult in this sex driven society, and be more spiritual. Spiritual to the point we can mortify the deeds of the flesh and see that God is better than sex and marriage and crave greater and greater for him and more of his word; to the point marriage become secondary and can also confess, "the zeal of thine house has eaten me up." Marital sex is so an earthly vanity that he would have instilled it only for reproductive purposes and the plain fact of Matt 22:30, which is mirrored in Mark 12:35 and Luke 20:34-35 shows its little importance relative to our true spiritual self, "And Jesus answering said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage: But they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage." This clearly shows where our priorities should be, with the spiritual, getting saved and growing in the Lord. It clearly shows that God is far better than Marriage and sex and should be first gained; making marriage secondary. "How could we have expected to preserve the symbiotic relationship between men and women when the rules governing our sexual behavior were turned upside down? [God, salvation and piety first, marriage secondary] Family disintegration was inevitable" (Dr. J. D.). Put the horse before the carriage and even if you don't have a carriage you have a horse and will be going places. Abstain and wait and even if no marriage, God is better than it.

One last advice on Marriage before closing. After God, think about this before stepping into marriage: "The pressures of adolescence and the stress of early married life do not mix well. Finish the first before taking on the second. Do not try to go to college, work full-time, have a baby, manage a toddler, fix up a house and start a business at the same time. Many couples do just that and are surprised when their marriage falls apart. Materialism and debt have devastated more families than perhaps any other factor" (Dr. J. D.). Marriage is hard work preparing for, I took that seriously as a youth and bought and read many books while courting the "love of my life." In fact, I was so serious that after a long late night conversation with her in 1999 I picked up Dr. Dobson's book, "Love for a lifetime," read it off that night and made foot note commentaries on every page at the bottom for her. I then mailed it to her for her to write her foot note commentaries at the top, which she did and mailed back: Both learning and teaching and preparing for marriage. Such seriousness is needed in youths today on a serious matter as marriage. We even courted closely for years and never over-stepped the boundaries to sex, by God's grace and giving heed to what we had biblically learnt. It is from that book I make many quotes in this Sexuality Series too. Marriage is serious and for life; at the initial stages, regardless of the outcome, it should be taken seriously. From this also, a skeptic seeing my age (1 Tim 4:12) and without the marital qualification can be quieted on the many true insight given in this sexuality series. I'm just a student of my teachers Christ and Paul. Christ was unmarried and taught extensively on marriage, Paul was unmarried and taught extensively on marriage also; despite heretics today who want to say otherwise. The institution of marriage is not a experience doctrine, it is God's design and hence what is given is what he intends and it fits perfectly, because he designed it; not necessarily learning by being in the institution itself to teach it, as Paul was, but get the blue print from the designer (God) and give it to you the reader.

In closing, you might also say this teaching is either weird or hard cutting preaching, let me close with a proverb from a man who has 'been there and done that' more than all - King Solomon - "He that reproveth a scorner getteth to himself shame: and he that rebuketh a wicked man getteth himself a blot. Reprove not a scorner, lest he hate thee: rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee. Give instruction to a wise man, and he will be yet wiser: teach a just man, and he will increase in learning" (Prov 9:7-9).
