

When The Promise of Fate Breaks Faith

By Jacob Heck

About

This book was highly inspired by Daniel Lloyd Davey, my hero. I think he is quite the poet and can reach people with his writings, which is the same of what I would like to do with my own poetry.

For those about to read this book, I hope the creativity can entertain you and maybe open up your minds.

Dedicated to

Friends, family. And of course, the little people.

Broken with your curse

Alone

I cannot find a soul
To share the love
Where companionship
Overpowers this feeling of being alone

And every time I do
The feeling is never the same
Between me
And her in the end

So as these waves of life
Come crashing down overhead
I have no one
To hold me.

Unconditional love

After the stars fall and collide
Forever is never and the shining stars lie
Only your Aphrodite like mind would know
To break this curse and to free my soul

To break the chains of religion
And free me from my blinded mind
Fed by these lies and fears of death
And let our hearts intertwine

For our love would be unstoppable
As we rule in the land of the wise
And after our fate we both know
Our souls together forever.

A Promise to remember

While the dark figures of you passing
Keeps fresh in my mind and soul
My fate will remember the everlasting
Promise to bring us together forever more...

On that cursed night
While the moon bled bright
And the fog elapsed our closed minds

Throughout the winter passing

And the chills surrounding
Our hearts frozen and intertwine

As your soul took no more
And the last breath of you left
When fate came to take you
Left with this whole in my chest

For jealously stolen heart
On how could Christ bring good
As followers lead ignorantly
On the corrupt rode of death

As your mind fantasies rule
Its lead you into hell
It brings us farther
As I try to rescue your soul

But as your mind makes this god
Of unjust power
It takes me farther away

I watch you disappear
The candles go out
Hell to collect me into an unleaded way

I breathe no longer
And I cannot reach
The heavens have corrupted my path

But this promise
Still holds us together
Our love will forever last.

Broken with your curse (fucking shattered)

From the fear of incoming night
I lay in thought of suicide
Because your soul being lost
And the garden of death you lie

You damned those with your black magick
And now you rest the crypts with your sleep
How I wish I could take you back
A unknown battle and soon come defeat

Slain with the words of your incomparable light

A deep hell broke within the damned
And you my dear, you created the sun
Within your power they shattered and ran

For creation itself we shall never know
But you marked your sign then left
And there is an ending to everything
Breathing or not, there is a death

You were my light
You lead our way
Through darkness and fright
Through the damned and betrayed

Everything we have created
Everything done and said
And now that you're gone
Its over, you're dead.

Twisted by your own wrath

Twisted by your own wrath

In the land of dead
And only hells light may shine
Through eclipse sufferings
And baths of blood like wine

The ruler still stands strong
Holding my love with grasp
Of strong hand and jealousy fulfilled
Erasing my own and renewing the past

For a promise broken with a curse
A sunrise comes from the damned
To over rule this unjust power
And one because all in this land

When we first met

When we first met
Your hands were so cold
And as I held them
Our future was told

To be loved forever
To damn those who bring hate

To live our lives together
To break the lies of faith

And as I looked into your eyes
A gate opened to your soul
And I knew from that point forward
To share the pain your past has told

As our minds combined
Our wisdom shared
The deep love we slept forever
Lovers walking in the valley of death.

Defeated by the damned and betrayed

For you may have power
Through one of sin
But I have the millions
Of taken wrongly and pinned

As forsaken murders
And people of wrong
Of those have lived there lives
Knowing not of god

And as we fight strong
Her soul will be free
As I messenger this world
With wisdom that comes within me

And I will screech
And I will cry
How you have taken
The love of my life

And people will be rushed
With the wellness of what I say
And you will be defeated
By the damned and betrayed.

In the midst of love

In the midst of love
With the pleasure brought Within your accompanying
And you to take without thought
My hand within treasuring

And as you smile without phrase
My soul cries like bright stars
On moist cool waves
Reflected splintered scars

Thinking as I hold you in my arms
If I shall I die today
Let our love ship far
Cast by souls foreplay

You my Queen
As we picked upon flowers
That gave off such scent
Of sweet spring aroma
That tossed through the wind

You made a tiara
And called yourself queen
Of the rose buds and stems
That rest so gently

On your dark shadowed hair
That made the birds sing
Traveled loosely around you
Past your eyes which gleamed

Of beauty and truth
That holds my heart
With dark solemn stare
Knowing we shall never part.

Till sunrise comes
Two like read souls
Dwelt within affinity
As the continuous love
Shared between you and me

Through the harsh wintered nights
Where clothes alone cannot warm
The blood throughout our veins
Till sunset is again born

Clasped together as one
And shivering chills lick our spines
And the wish for sleep is constant
Until the day is new with sunrise

Whispers are shared
And the night ends
A new day is born
Together forever till the end

Two lovers shadowed by trees
As the wind pushes the mist
Against your cold lips
And whispers in harmony
For a delicate kiss

To be shared between lovers
And the moment to last long
As the clouds above hover
And rain still pours strong

A sunset it broke
As the innocent made
This moment beautiful
And the clouds started to fade

To an appealing sunset
With rain falling from leaves
Held against one another
Two lovers shadowed by trees

A fever of hallucinations

And I, his only friend

As the forest snowed blue
Through the dark eclipse moon
The beast unraveled
And came onto you

Depressed with hate
From lies of the public
Through my own hallucinations
And through nostrils he licked

And smelled all around
He looked me into the eyes
And I read what he wanted
Through heart beats and sighs

He doesn't speak to no one
But he tells me the truth
He wants to bring pain
He wants me to do

The duties of hate
And expel you for good
To the crypts of his pocket
Of souls chambered as food

And his gray skin moved slowly
As dark skin lines show
A wet sweat of running
Through the forest covered with snow

And the trees passing
Without any wind
The beast is alone
And I, his only friend.

Through her innocence stare

My love can see
Right through my soul
And she knows of my thoughts
Of this strong hate of betrayal

And she looks me into the eyes

And whispers the word no
As tears start to drop
Sobbing a sympathy from her soul

And I know I cannot hide
These thoughts which are cruel
Only breaking us apart
And using me as a fool

But I cannot stop
This demon within
Because he is alone
With me his only friend

And as she sobs still
With her head dropped in lost
As our love is slowly falling
And making our insides rot

Of hate that is pointless
But it is too strong
For me to say I'm sorry
For me to say I'm wrong

Note to self

Our actions are dead
And my temptation grows
To take the life
Of the girl that already knows

Every thought I am thinking
By this fever of hate
And I know it hurts her
But all I can do is wait

Until this deed is fulfilled
And for this demon to leave
By me to take the life of her
The demon shall let me be

But one isn't that easy
Yet this temptation grows
And she still cries every night
Because she already knows...

She speaks without tears

"If you are going to take my life
And damn yourself with hate
Brought forth by your thoughts
And give yourself your own fate

Of unforgivable sin
Why doesn't thy self do it today?
And leave me innocently stolen
By the demons who simply play

With your corrupt mind
Because I thought you were pure
Until your eyes read betrayal
Breaking our love forever more"

And then there were no tears
Just silence of my own
And the temptation growing
And hate is all there, as if all I've ever known.

When thy death comes

When thy death comes
Widowed will become my wife
And this fate is overcoming
To the end of my own life

The morning is young
And I bring the blade
Up to thy throat
For she knows she has been betrayed

Because of this demon
Who dwells within me
And I say no last words
No time for being sorry

And I reach back to thrust
And to end this curse which brings
Me pain and suffering
Worse than all painful dreams

Your eyes stare up at me pure
As you know what I shall do

And the time you were waiting for
Will finally go through

And I think back of the love
We shared in this split in time
Of how I will always be yours
And you will always mine

Tears of sorrow drop from my eyes
And it blinds me till I cannot see
And the blade curves and goes in
And the one lying dead is me...